Israeli Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli warplanes streaking deep into Lebanon bombed and strafed guerrilla bases Friday, and the Lebanese army said 17 civilians were killed and 10 wounded.

The Palestinian command said a number of its men also were killed and wounded in the 45-minute raid. By official Lebanese count, 30 civilians have been killed and 27 wounded in Israeli attacks during the last three days.

The U.N. Security Council was summoned late Friday to an urgent meeting on complaints of Lebanon and Israel growing out of troubles on their frontier in the last three days.

The council president, Yugoslav Ambassador Lazar Mojsov, called the meeting for 8 p.m. EDT.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa reported guerrilla anti-aircraft batteries opened fire on the Israeli jets, but claimed no kills. The military command in Tel Aviv said all Israeli planes returned safely.

Their target was Deir el-Ashayr near the highway linking Beirut with Damascus. The border town is a rear staging point for the trail over which the guerrillas move men and equipment—usually from Syria—into their bases in southern Lebanon.

The Israeli air raid came after an artillery and rocket exchange that thundered across the border during the night. Israel claimed the shelling started after guerrillas in Lebanon launched Katyusha rockets across the border at the Israeli town of Kiryat Shmona.

But Lebanese military sources said Israeli artillery began the shooting and Lebanese troops returned the fire. The army in Beirut charged that the Israeli guns hit two villages in southern Lebanon with a 2½-hour barrage. In the village of Dibbine seven miles from the border, officers said, one woman was killed and another seriously injured by the Israeli fire.

They said the second village, Majdal Islim, was shelled for 20 minutes and several homes were destroyed. The village lies just across the border from Kiryat Shmona, the Israeli town which Tel Aviv claimed was hit by rockets.

The hostilities marked the third day of fighting this week along the tense border area where Palestinian guerrillas have set up camps. Israelis charge the region is a launching pad for commando raids into Israel.

Thousands Flee Their Homes

Floods Ravage East Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The grievously stricken East was ravaged from Virginia to upstate New York by the worst floods in its history Friday, as a new storm moved in after a week of all but incessant rains. The National Weather Service saw no immediate letup in what it called "a major disaster."

"I have never in my life seen such total destruction as has taken place in a number of areas in the state," said Gov. Marvin Mandel after a helicopter survey of Maryland, one of five seaboard states designated as disaster areas by President Nixon.

Up from the south early Wednesday came tropical storm Agnes, far enough inland to spare such coastal cities as New York, Philadelphia and Newark from major damage. Then Thursday night, a teaming successor drove in from the west.

Between them, the storms claimed 76 lives, 29 of them in Pennsylvania. Scores of persons were missing in dark, swirling flood waters.

Damage was incalculable. Preliminary estimates set a figure of $1 billion in Pennsylvania alone.

Some city streets vanished under 10 feet of water, as raging rivers uprooted homes from their foundations, tumbled automobiles like toys, smashed pleasure craft to bits and washed away crops on inundated farm lands.

When a dam was opened in upstate New York to guard against its bursting, Army engineers said the result was a flow of water equivalent to that going over the American Falls at Niagara Falls.

Mightiest of more than a dozen rivers to burst their banks was the Ohio, where a crest 10 feet above flood level was expected at Pittsburgh. Record crests were forecast for the historic Potomac in Maryland. The James River sent waters 27 feet above flood stage to within a few blocks of the Virginia state capitol at Richmond. The Susquehanna rampaged across 100 miles of Pennsylvania countryside.

The floods were the worst on record in New York, Virginia and Pennsylvania, called by the Weather Service "some of the severest and most extensive floods in our region in modern history."

RICHMOND, Virginia—The city of Richmond was without power Friday as the James River continued to cause massive flooding in the area. The city manager ordered every one out of a large area of the downtown section of the city after water from the river spilled over a 22-foot protecting dike. McGovern Delegate Hunters On Prowl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.

George McGovern's delegate hunters said Friday they expect to wrap up the votes for the Democratic presidential nomination 10 days before the national convention opens in Miami Beach.

They added their forces will have voting control of the three panels—platform, credentials and rules—preparing for the convention that begins July 10.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey campaigned in Atlanta, claiming the best civil rights record of any man in the Democratic field.

And Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was quoted as saying the odds would be against McGovern in a race against President Nixon. Democratic platform draftsmen, meeting in Washington, elected a 15-member panel to write a proposed party stance on the issues of 1972.

McGovern needs 1,509 nominating votes to put him atop the Democratic ticket. The Associated Press count of delegates gave him 1,303.5, with only 42 more to be selected before the convention.

Rick Stearns, in charge of the delegate search, claimed McGovern already has 1,413, and will get the rest of a majority by July 1.

He said the McGovern forces were looking particularly to wavering or uncommitted delegates in Illinois, New Jersey and Iowa, and to about 105 black delegates, 65 of them uncommitted and the others aligned with Negro candidates.

At the platform sessions, delegates committed to McGovern were elected to 6 of the 15 positions on the subcommittee assigned to draft the document.

In addition to the McGovern delegates, the subcommittee included two pledged to Humphrey, two favoring Gov. George C. Wallace, one Muskie supporter and four who are uncommitted.

That panel was instructed to work out a draft by Sunday midnight at the latest, so that the full, 150-member committee can consider it Monday and Tuesday.

Under Democratic reform rules, the final draft must be mailed to all delegates 10 days before the convention opens.

Then, in Miami Beach, the convention itself will decide whether to accept or alter the platform on which its nominee will run.

The Democratic convention rules committee had its own controversy over rules, and refused by a 68-17 vote to seat members from Florida because their delegation is not equally balanced between men and women.

B52s Make Their Heaviest Strikes

forces attacked South Vietnam's northern defense line Friday for the sixth straight day despite the heaviest strikes by U.S. B52 bombers in the war.

The North Vietnamese lost 99 men in three clashes with government forces holding the line at the My Chanh River, the Saigon Command reported. Government losses were given as 5 dead and 22 wounded.

South Vietnamese troops, backed by artillery and U.S. fighter-bombers, also knocked out one tank in the fighting between dawn and noon, the command said.

Half the B52 force in the southwestern Pacific was marshaled to bomb enemy positions extending from the river front, 2 miles north of Hue, to the A Shau Valley, 25 miles southwest of the former imperial capital.

Sources said a main objective was to forestall any attempt by the North Vietnamese to launch coordinated attacks on Hue from their river strongholds in the north and valley bases in the west near the Laotian border.

The strikes also could be a softening up effort in advance of a new spoiling operation by South Vietnamese ground troops to retake Quang Tri Province, informants said. The country's northernmost province fell to the enemy May 1 and there has been no attempt to recapture it although President Nguyen Van Thieu said Monday he has ordered a campaign to regain lost territory.

One hundred giant Stratofortresses dropped 2,500 tons of explosives on enemy units and supply caches along a 30-mile line from the river through the foothills and valleys stretching west of Hue.

U.S. fighter-bombers flew more than 250 strikes over North Vietnam on Thursday, and aimed some of them at the country's heartland.

Navy pilots using television-guided bombs reported knocking out two rail bridges between Hanoi and Haiphong. Air Force fliers said their laser-directed bombs cut a third bridge linking the North Vietnamese capital with the Thai Nguyen steel complex 40 miles north. Other Air Force pilots reported damaging or destroying several buildings at the Thai Nguyen army supply depot.

In a delayed report, the Navy said two carrier-based Phantom jets downed a MIG21 Wednesday, 37 miles northwest of Hanoi. It was the 39th MIG kill claimed this year and the 150th of the war.

North Vietnam claimed American bombs and naval gunfire are bombarding dikes and dams in an effort to cause floods and famine in the North. A U.S. Command spokesman in Saigon said dams and dikes had not been designated as targets but that some might have been hit if they were near other targets.

Miami Beach City Council Rejects Live-In Campsites

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—

Fearing violence, the Miami Beach City Council voted Friday against live-in campsites for the thousands of protesters expected to haunt the national political conventions—and was promptly faced by an angry young man armed with a pumpkin pie.

Patrick Small of New York, a self-proclaimed Zippie and member of the Underground Press Syndicate, wielded the pie and ran into a stomach blow by councilman Harold Rosen who appeared to be his prime target. Police quickly hustled the long-haired protester from the hall.

Rosen's suit was splattered with pie, and Dr. Leonard Haber, a psychologist and council member who voted for campsites, had pumpkin in his hair.

Members of the loose alliance of youth, antiwar, homosexual and feminist liberation groups quickly disclaimed any connection with the attack and said they might suit the Zippies from their councils.

The Zippies are a splinter group of the Youth International Party—Yippies.

The council agreed to set aside public areas as staging grounds for demonstrators and National Guard troops but voted 5-2 against campsites recommended by Gov. Reubin Askew, his Task Force on Community Affairs, and Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall.

All had urged the council "not to make the same mistake as Chicago," which denied facilities to demonstrators during the violence-wracked Democratic convention of 1968.

A bitter debate raged for more than 2½ hours before a motion by Haber to provide the campsites went down to its decisive defeat. Shouts, applause and angry voices were heard throughout.

At one point, a man stood up and yelled: "If you let the liberals in, we'll bring down just as many conservatives."

Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, two of the Chicago 7 convicted on charges stemming from violence in Chicago during the 1968 Convention, were in the audience but demonstrated only once or twice with shouts and hand signs. However, the mayor continually asked for order from the large delegation of Yippies, Gays and Fem Libbers who occupied one side of the auditorium. The council heard pleas from rabbis and others that campsites be designated for crowds which some estimate will climb to 150,000 by the time the Republicans convene Aug. 21. The Democrats start their convention July 10.

Those who voted against the campsites repeatedly expressed concern for the security of residents in the area.

The council approved recommendations of City Manager Clifford O'Key that Bayside Golf Course, Par Three Golf Course, and the high school athletic field be set aside as staging areas for the National Guard in the interest of maintaining civil order.

Flamingo Park also was designated as a site "for free speech and nondelegate programs" and as a staging area prior to demonstration marches to the convention site seven blocks away.

The City of Miami and Dade County had approved campsites on Watson Island and Haulover Park. From both of these areas, protesters would require transportation for the several miles to the Miami Beach convention site.

World Monetary Crisis Spectre Appears Again

LONDON (AP) — Britain let the pound sterling float Friday to avert a threatened devaluation, but at the same time raised the spectre of a new world monetary crisis.

The surprise British move immediately put heavy pressure on the weakened U.S. dollar throughout Europe and forced continental money markets to close their doors in confusion.

An emergency meeting of government central bankers from the six European Common Market nations was called for Paris Saturday. Experts said that meeting likely would order a float of European Common Market currencies against the dollar when continental markets reopen, probably Tuesday.

Any return to such wide-scale floating would unwind, at least temporarily, many of the delicate arrangements for fixed exchange rates worked out in Washington last December at the end of the world's worst monetary crisis since World War II.

For businessmen, governments and tourists alike, it would again raise questions of what a nation's money is really worth at any particular time.

President Nixon, like his European counterparts, called in senior financial advisors for consultations.

The British were forced to act to safeguard the national reserves backing the pound. In the past two weeks the pound has declined to the floor level permitted under current exchange rates. Inflation in Britain, industrial unrest, and foreign trade losses drove the pound down.

To keep the pound solvent the Bank of England had to intervene with massive support buying. It did so by dipping into reserves. By some estimates the bank used up $1.3 billion of the nation's $7 billion in total reserves during this fight. It could not go on indefinitely.

By floating the pound and closing the London foreign exchange market Friday and Monday, the government freed the bank from using up more reserves. When the markets reopen, the pound can float outside fixed exchange rates according to supply and demand.

The government hopes the pound will eventually settle near the old parity of $2.80 and avoid a formal devaluation.

Although the float announcement took the immediate pressure off the pound, it left the weakening U.S. dollar exposed. International companies, bankers, and speculators with large funds began switching out of dollars to find safer havens in stronger currencies like Swiss francs or German marks.

The dollar then sank to its floor on continental money markets. The big question, however, was the future stability of the world monetary system.

Britain announced the float as "a temporary measure," recalling President Nixon's decision to float the dollar last August. Nixon's move then failed to resolve the dollar's troubles and the United States was forced last December to demand against gold and other currencies.

But the U.S. measure failed to make American goods competitive, the balance payments deficits continued, and this is responsible for the dollar's weak position.

Hoffa On Prison Reform

There were reverberations of irony in James R. Hoffa's appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee on National Penitentiaries. He had been in that hearing room before—in 1957, as a chief witness in a labor racketeering inquiry which led to his ultimate conviction on jury-tampering charges.

Now, having served some time and having had his sentence commuted by the President, he was there in the role of an expert on prison reform. Hoffa is much less expert than some others who have devoted many years of thought and concern to the matter. Two factors lend particular interest to his testimony, however: he is for various reasons a very well known figure, and he speaks from the viewpoint of one who has spent time "inside."

All this got Hoffa a more attentive hearing than many another witness might have received. It also brought his remarks a lot of publicity. That is good, because it puts a brighter spotlight on things often said before.

He focused especially on the general failure in our prison system, both federal and state, to train inmates for employment outside. "Many ex-convicts," he said, "revert to a life of crime" because of this failure, and there is little doubt that that is true. To put a finer point on it, Hoffa told the senators that "85 per cent of the inmates in federal prisons lack any marketable skill when they leave prison." The folly of this needs no elaboration.

Most of the other points made by Hoffa in his proposals for reform were equally familiar: that prisons are overcrowded, that medical care is inadequate, that various aspects of prison life—even the size and fit of clothing issued to inmates—deliberately or unwittingly deprive men of human dignity, that library facilities are poor, and so on. Persons interested in prison reform have been saying these and related things for years. It would be good if, now that they have been repeated by an ex-convict of Hoffa's prominence, people would listen.

Let Us Consider 'Consequences'

"In nature there are neither rewards nor punishments," said 19th century agnostic Robert G. Ingersoll. "There are consequences."

Unfortunately, in human life as well, there are not always rewards or punishments—what men call justice. Nevertheless, our deeds most definitely have consequences.

On Sept. 15, 1963, four small black girls were killed in the bombing of a church in Montgomery, Ala. On April 7, 1970, a white judge was killed during a breakout attempt by three black men on trial in a Marin County, Calif., courtroom.

The second event was not, of course, a consequence of the first. The one crime did not cause, explain or justify the other.

But there is a connecting link between them, a woman named Angela Davis, who was charged with complicity in the abduction of the judge and was eventually completely exonerated by a jury.

The link lies in the fact that Miss Davis, who was 19 years old and living in Montgomery at the time of the bombing, later cited this insane atrocity as one of the things that profoundly influenced her life, that helped turn her against the kind of America she saw around her and toward communism, that made her adopt a career as an activist and "radical."

She was widely quoted after her acquittal as saying that her opinion of American justice hadn't changed. The only fair trial for her, she said, would have been no trial at all.

Yet the person or persons responsible for the deaths of four little girls in Montgomery have never been brought to trial. It would be obscene to say that in this case, no trial was a fair trial.

There was neither reward nor punishment after what happened in Montgomery, but more consequences have flowed from that crime than human wisdom can tell—and from every other act of hate ever committed by white against black.

That intelligent, talented blacks like Angela Davis have lost all faith in the ultimate justice of American society is only one of those consequences.

Foreign Powers Gambling On Nixon Reelection

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Moscow and Peking—and a lot of other non-Communist foreign power centers—apparently are gambling on President Nixon's re-election chances and playing their cards accordingly. Soviet insiders privately acknowledged during the Moscow summit that Kremlin leaders had made a political assessment that Nixon would be in the White House four more years and therefore the man they would have to deal with. For that reason, and other national interests, Soviet leaders turned the other cheek when Nixon ordered the mining of North Vietnamese harbors, affecting Russian ships. The Russian top leaders apparently were motivated to deal with their former ardent anti-Communist foe by the lure of a nuclear arms pact and out of fear of a growing U.S.-Chinese detente.

Hanoi Likes McGovern
Peking also decided it could do business with Nixon and its political readings on the President's chances of staying in office helped make that summit meeting possible.

There are indications that both Moscow and Peking have passed on to Hanoi their appraisals of Nixon's re-election chances, with a warning that after November, he might take a harder position on ending the war.

The North Vietnamese have publicly praised Sen. George S. McGovern, citing his antiwar position. McGovern is feared by the Saigon government which has been generally pleased with Nixon's tough line response to the invasion of South Vietnam by the Communists.

Among other nations closely watching the U.S. presidential race, Poland followed the Moscow lead and gave Nixon a warm welcome. The President's arm-waving, handshaking "meet the people" approach in Warsaw's Victory Square was described by some pundits as worth thousands of Polish-American votes in Chicago and elsewhere.

Middle East Watches
The President's re-election chances also apparently have risen in the eyes of leaders of other nations in Europe and in the Far East.

In the Middle East, the U.S. picture is being closely watched by both the Israelis and Arabs. Israel's U.S. ambassador, Yitzhak Rabin, got into hot water in quarters because of remarks made in a recent radio interview in Jerusalem that were interpreted as supporting Nixon for re-election. Both Rabin and Prime Minister Golda Meir denied that the comments praising Nixon constituted Israeli interferences in U.S. politics.

In a White House-sponsored meeting with 80-plus publishers of Jewish newspapers in this country a few months ago, Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco said Nixon had done three times as much for Israel as his predecessors.

McGovern also has sought to spur his appeal among Jewish voters. He recently pointed out that even though he wanted to pull U.S. troops out of Vietnam, he has supported sending American forces to aid Israel if it was invaded by its neighbors.

'Open Process':

Democrats Erase Law, Voter Choice

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The national Democratic party, in its 1972 drive for reforms to open up its process, has been operating as a dominant agency "sending a message" to the 50 state party organizations. At times it seems only dimly aware that the states have been sending messages right back. We must presume that Democratic leaders in the states understood that the hectic 1968 national convention at Chicago decreed that nothing at all—not law or moral or ethical obligation—should take supremacy over a convention delegate's individual conscience.

Notwithstanding that rather startling message, a good many states in the intervening years proceeded to take action in exactly the opposite direction. Much of this change is now embedded in new state law, though some is simply cast in altered state party rules.

To be specific, seven states which previously either had no presidential primary at all or had a nonbinding contest, adopted changes which made the results of their primaries binding—in the convention—on all chosen delegates. The District of Columbia followed suit, emulating Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, Michigan, Maryland, Rhode Island and New Mexico.

In addition, Pennsylvania enacted a law authorizing state parties to establish rules which would permit delegate candidates to bind themselves to particular presidential choices if they wished. If delegate candidates did so, they were to be legally bound. The Pennsylvania Democrats adopted such binding rules.

Furthermore, five states—Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Indiana, Oregon and California—retained the totally binding feature of their established primary laws.

What does all this come to? It means that in 1972 some 12 states and the District of Columbia have laws binding all their chosen delegates to follow the results of their primaries. That means voting in the national convention according to preferences expressed for presidential nominees in balloting at the polls.

The number of delegates thus bound is a record high—984 of the total of 3,016 to be named to the July 10 Miami Beach convention.

This is not the end of it. Counting in the altered Pennsylvania law and party rule, four states—including also Nebraska, New Hampshire and South Dakota—now allow delegate candidates to bind themselves to a presidential choice and make the binding legal if they choose that course. They represent 241 delegate votes. Altogether, then, 984 delegates must be legally bound and another 241 can be if they choose, for a grand total of 1,225, well over a third of all convention delegates in 1972.

Still more, in three states, Illinois, New Jersey and Ohio, delegate candidates can indicate a presidential preference but are only "morally bound" if they do and they win as delegates. These three represent another 432 delegates this year.

So, with primaries held in 22 states and D.C., the legal binding effect embraces all delegates in 13, can embrace those in four more. Add those with moral commitment and all but three primaries are covered—New York, West Virginia and Alabama.

Sounds like something of a trend—toward making actual voters' wishes on presidential choices effective and binding. And it seems like nothing but arrogance and effrontery for chosen delegates, participating in full awareness of these laws, to tell voters that their vote may go for naught and to tell presidential bidders their costly campaigns for "committed" delegates may lose out to "conscience."

Ann Landers:

Burglar Offers Advice

Dear Ann Landers: As you can see from the letterhead I am in jail in Indianapolis, Marion County. I am not asking for help. I am writing instead to help your readers.

As a person who has made a small fortune in burglaries and robberies I have some advice for your readers. Perhaps I can save them some trouble and money.

People spend money on burglar alarms, pick-proof locks and watchdogs but they foolishly issue invitations to burglars by leaving the garage doors open which lead right into the house. A hunk of meat or a blast of Mace will quiet the dog.

If a burglar wants to get into your house or apartment he will get in. You might think it unbelievable but I have ransacked many a nightstand while the owner slept less than one foot away. Burglars have discovered that the nightstand is a gold mine of wallets, credit cards, check books, jewelry—and guns.

Once in the wee hours I actually had to crawl under a bed while the sleepy victim got up and went to the bathroom. When he returned and resumed his snoring I ripped the place off for a couple of watches, a hand gun and more than $125 in cash.

One thing that worries a burglar is a light in the bathroom. Most burglars do not risk a face to face confrontation with an intended victim coming out of the bathroom. If you want to discourage an intruder, keep the bathroom light on all night and the bathroom door ajar. If you are not at home, the play still works—provided you remember to rumple up the bed so it will look as if someone has been sleeping in it.

The important thing to remember is this: If you are in bed and you hear a stranger in the house—stay in bed. If you were asleep—stay that way, or at least act like it. Don't try to be a hero. Most burglars travel in pairs these days and they are usually armed. If a confrontation does occur, keep cool. Remember that about 65 per cent of all break-ins today are by people who are high on drugs or pills. They are desperate for money and will kill you if they have to. Don't argue, don't scream, don't try to get to a button or a phone. The smart thing to do is to fake a faint and stay "unconscious." Nothing that you own is worth getting killed for.

The judge has already said I should spend from one to ten years with the Indiana Department of Correction for my misdeeds. From where I see it—at the age of 21—the immediate future isn't too rosy. I hope that when I am free once again—I'll still be worried about your house. Sincerely—D. P. B.—Cellblock 3-C.

Dear D.P.G.: So do I. In the meantime thank you for a very informative letter. Write again if you find you have time on your hands.

Dear Ann Landers: Being a daily reader of your column for many years makes me confident that you will give me a sensible answer in plain language I can understand.

I am a woman who just celebrated her 65th birthday. I am losing my hair and I do not want to wear a wig. Do you know of anything I can do—some preparation or treatment perhaps, that will keep the rest of my hair from falling out? Thank you in advance.—Lewis-ton Maine Reader

Dear L.M. Reader: The main reasons for hair loss are (a) skin disease (b) undue nervous tension (c) the natural aging process.

If you have ruled out the first two possibilities accept your hair loss as a normal symptom of added years. Don't throw out money on useless treatments or phony salves and ointments.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Nearly 10 per cent of the U.S. population or about 20 million persons are 65 years and older, according to the 1970 Census. The World Almanac notes. Of this number, approximately 6 million live in the South, 2 million live in New York, 1.8 million in California, 1.3 million in Pennsylvania and 1.1 million in Illinois.

Nixon Inks Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon Monday signed the $21.3-billion education bill but criticized its antibusing provisions as a congressional "retreat from an urgent call for responsibility."

He said the busing provisions are "inadequate, misleading and entirely unsatisfactory."

Referring to his own proposals for a one-year moratorium on any new court-ordered busing, the President said Congress "has not given us the answer we requested; it has given us rhetoric. It has not provided a solution to the problem of court-ordered busing; it has provided a clever political evasion."

The education bill contains wide-ranging provisions to aid education from elementary to graduate school which the administration calls a landmark measure. Also tacked onto it was a provision that would halt for 18 months any school desegregation ordered by the federal courts until all appeals had been exhausted.

Nixon declared that the moratorium bill offers is "temporary; the relief it provides is illusory."

The 92nd Congress, he charged, has apparently decided to "dump the matter into the lap of the 93rd. Not in the course of this administration has there been a more manifest congressional retreat from an urgent call for responsibility."

Nixon had told a news conference Thursday the antibusing provision "totally fails" to deal properly with the subject.

If he vetoed the bill, Nixon said, he doubted he could get the education provisions back on his desk in the form he wants and then get separately a straight-out moratorium on new school-busing orders, which he favors.

Summoning reporters to his Oval Office for an impromptu news conference—his first in three months—Nixon limited questions to domestic policy.

However, he promised to hold another meeting next week and to take questions on any topic.

The President urged approval of the strategic arms limitation agreement, now being debated in Congress, followed by a favorable vote on the offensive-weapons-development programs proposed by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and the administration.

Nixon said Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev made it absolutely clear that his country will continue developing and improving weapons not under the offensive-weapons agreement.

Unless the United States does the same, the President said, there would be no chance the Soviets would negotiate Phase 2 of the arms limitations.

In addition, he said, without

U.S. development programs, the Soviet Union would "be substantially ahead of the United States over-all" by the latter part of the 1970s.

On other topics, Nixon said: —He is considering temporarily lifting meat-import quotas in an effort to slow the increase in food prices. Such a move, he said, could bring some moderation in meat prices within a few months.

—He will abide by the Supreme Court ruling requiring court orders for wiretapping in domestic security cases. He will not seek additional authority from Congress in such cases.

—The Pentagon made "an appropriate decision" in declining to court-martial Air Force Gen. John V. Lavelle, who made unauthorized bombing raids into North Vietnam. Lavelle was relieved of duty, demoted and retired.

—Federal troops are being supplied for the Miami conventions and will be used if requested. But he foresees no violent demonstrations such as occurred at the Democratic convention in Chicago four years ago.

—"The White House has had no involvement whatever" in the break-in at the Democratic National Committee offices in Washington. One of the five men charged in the break-in was, until after the incident, security chief for Nixon's re-election campaign.

—His campaign officials were following the law in declining to make public the source of some $10 million in contributions made prior to the April 7 effective date of a new disclosure law. "If the Congress wanted this law to apply to contributions before the date in April... it could have made it apply," Nixon said.

SPACESHIPS AND SANDWICHES

"Okay, we've landed, now let's get out and look at this old moon!"
My two small boys are at it again. Today, the old gray stump is a spaceship. Tomorrow it may be a fort or a castle. More practically, at luncheon it's a picnic table.
Right now the side yard is my sons' world. Behind a picket fence, they roam the seas and sky in imagination, the sound of their voices reassuring me of their safety.
It won't always be this way. Someday, they'll leave the back yard forever, swashbuckling through a world of schools and camps, friends and parties.
How strange it will be—not to guide their every footstep. Where am I to get the courage? Fortunately, I can answer my own question. I have my church, and so do my boys. As a source of great goodness, it will guide them all their days.

Do You Want An Average Child?

(Second in a Series)
By Dr. Willard Abraham
Do you want your child to be "average"? Some parents of bright youngsters say they do but you know they're usually kidding. More serious might be the parents of children with pronounced retarded, emotional, learning or other problems which they would just go away, so their offspring could move into the "average" range.

And that's an important factor—it is a range, a spread of abilities or performance rather than an exact point. For example, it might encompass a measured intelligence of about 90 to 110 I.Q., learning to walk any time between 9 and 18 months, and normal differences in height, weight, appearance, emotions, interests, capabilities and other developmental conditions.

There are several different ways to view the term "average" as it applies to children.

Some years ago McGraw-Hill produced educational films called "The Terrible Twos and the Trusting Threes" and "The Frustrating Fours and the Fascinating Fives." But if you have a child of one of those ages and the label doesn't fit, does that mean there's a reason for concern? Of course not. Children can't be compartmentalized like test tube chemicals. Efforts to force them into descriptive molds have been disconcerting for many conscientious parents.

For the past few generations they have often been misled by child experts who unconsciously guided them toward a concept of the average, "and if your child deviates, watch out." These professionals have frequently tossed out warnings, "For the past few generations they have often been misled by child experts who unconsciously guided them toward a concept of the average, "and if your child deviates, watch out." These professionals have frequently tossed out warnings, admonitions, like "don't generalize on the basis of what I say" or "each child is different."

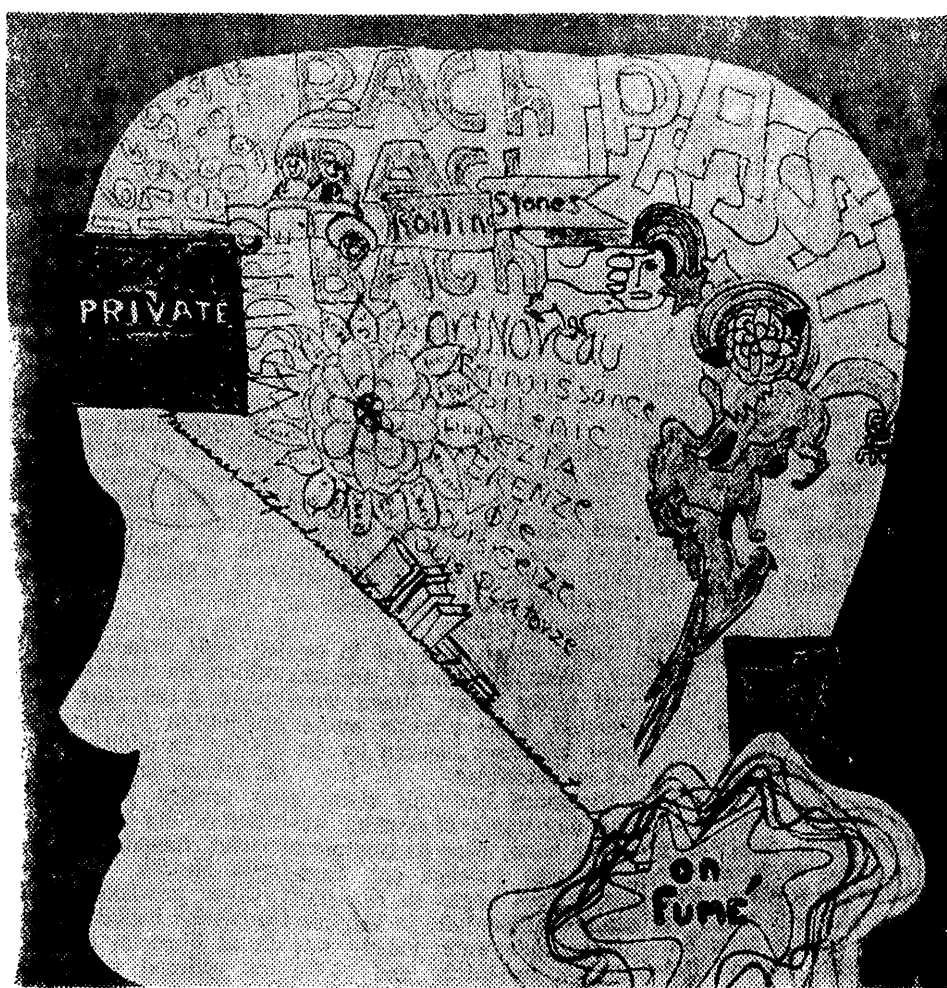

Still, we've read their words of wisdom and worry if our kids vary even a little bit. Spock, Gesell and, more recently, Ginott have stressed normal expectations. If we're realistic we recognize that deviations from the norm aren't necessarily a problem. Young mothers and fathers pore over published child development charts that tell them what to expect of their "normal" two (negativistic, possessive, solitary play), three (anxious to please, cooperative, conforming) or four-year-old (hell-raiser, talkative, imaginative, constant "Why?" asker). Many are sophisticated enough these days to realize that the broad range of the normal can accommodate most children.

In other cultures, what is average is sometimes different from our view of the great middle. When Margaret Mead wrote "Coming of Age in Samoa" many years ago, it came as a surprise for some people to hear that there are societies where teen-age storm and stress are unknown. In "The Light in the Piazza," Elizabeth Spencer pointed out that in some places mental retardation is an acceptable factor in marriage.

Nearsightedness, lack of coordination that may keep a kid from becoming a Little League first baseman, a few fuzzy letters in oral speech, a desire to be alone more than most other children do—these may all be average development factors

Hardin's Grave Gets Headstone

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Just got the news by telephone from El Paso that someone put a headstone on John Wesley Hardin's grave at last.

And it was about time! It seemed as if Wes would go through eternity without a monument. It took three-quarters of a century to get the bit of gray granite put there. Some of Wes' relatives installed the headstone.

It bears only Wes' name, date of birth and death.

The headstone and a marker at the spot where he was killed are the only physical recognition that Wes, otherwise known as Little Arkansas, ever existed. Yet his name is spread throughout any book dealing with Western badmen.

While Jesse James has monuments all over Missouri, John Wesley Hardin was such a terrible killer that no person wanted even a distant connection with him.

Most authorities count Hardin's murders at 43, all of them without any visible reason even by the somewhat loose reasoning of Western badmen.

Hardin possessed a flaring temper and generally killed without considering the matter at all.

Biographers say Wes' career began when he was a teen-ager hanging around Bonham. He and a huge bully argued. Wes went home, got the family six-shooter and killed the man.

Shortly thereafter, the McKinney sheriff tried to arrest Hardin and Wes killed him. That really gave him the reputation of owning a hot gun.

Hardin really was no man of great courage on all occasions.

He fled in his night clothes at Dodge City, Kan., when he heard two officers were hunting him, then disarmed them when they followed him. He sent them back home in their underclothes.

Hardin got 25 years in prison for killing a deputy sheriff in 1874, but he was pardoned in 1893. Then came the incident in the Acme saloon in El Paso Aug. 19, 1895.

An 11-year-old Western Union boy named Jack delivered a telegram to Wesley at the saloon.

Wes tipped the boy, put his hand on the youngster's head and pointed to a glass of whiskey.

"Son, you see that? Take my advice and don't ever touch that stuff. It'll get you into trouble every time."

Moments later, John Selman, cattle rustler, gunman and ex-constable, slipped behind Hardin and shot him dead.

That event made a strong impression on Jack. He eschewed the communications field, gambling such as Hardin was doing at the moment, and the liquor industry.

Jack is L.H. "Jack" Hubbard, who grew up to become president of what now is Texas Woman's University at Denton, serving from 1928 through 1950. The virtues of leading a calm life are apparent. Dr. Hubbard now is 92 years old. Little Arkansas died at 42.

for particular youngsters. (To ward off the anger and anguish of ophthalmologists, perception trainers, speech people and psychologists, I'd better hurry to state that improvement may be both desirable and available in many of these instances.)

One place where average often can and should be questioned is in school. Two examples can help make the point: the teacher who insists on a normal curve so that when he or she faces any class, it automatically forms a pattern that requires most of the youngsters to fall into the undistinguished middle; the bright child bored to death with mediocrity, and

CLASS TO HOST WSCS LADIES

CHANDLERVILLE — The Golden Rule Class of the Chandlerville United Methodist church met at the church Wednesday, June 14th 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Shirley Garner and Mrs. Adrian Artholony served as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Robert Garner, conducted the business meeting. Roll call was answered by eight members. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read.

The July meeting will be a his parents and teachers lull-ed into inactivity because his grades and performance are somewhere around the center.

There is no child who's average in everything. It's what he can succeed in that we have to search for. What can make him special? What sports, studies, hobbies, talents, or skills can help him stand out even a little bit? What individual or group activities can give him the recognition he needs? How about Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, YWCA and so many others?

We want to take pride in what he does—and be sure he's comfortable with his own image. That's quite a task. To accomplish it means we continually have to seek and help develop any potential competencies he has.

After repeating the Lord's Prayer, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses from a table decorated in keeping with Flag Day.

The game prizes were won by Mrs. Paul A. Abbott and Mrs. Howard Johnson. Door prize was awarded to Mrs. Wilson Davies.

Hijacker Demands

$502,000 Friday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An armed hijacker demanding $502,000 commandeered an American Airlines jetliner Friday, returning to the St. Louis airport to pick up his ransom after taking the plane and 21 hostages on a flight toward Texas.

Earlier, the hijacker ordered the plane flown to Fort Worth, Tex., but then directed the pilot to fly back to St. Louis after nearly completing the journey.

A radio operator at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport who monitored the plane captain's transmissions to the airport quoted the captain as saying the hijacker planned to keep one passenger aboard the plane and get a fresh crew.

Mike McNearey, the radio operator, said the captain indicated the hijacker then wanted to head toward Toronto, make a low pass to make sure it is Toronto and then fly to John F. Kennedy Airport in New York. There was no official confirmation of the radio operator's report, however.

"He's changed his plans several times," said McNearey. "He (the hijacker) threatened to kill one stewardess if his orders were not carried out."

Federal authorities said earlier that the hijacker, described as a white man in his 20s, also had demanded parachutes, a shovel and a radar scanning device be brought to the airport by the time the Boeing 727 returned.

There was no immediate indication whether the hijacker's demands had been met. After landing, the plane remained on the runway and was being refueled.

William A. Sullivan, agent in charge of the St. Louis FBI office, said the hijacker took with him as hostages 14 male passengers, four stewardesses and three other crew members.

The plane returned to St. Louis after nearly completing a flight to Ft. Worth, Tex. The Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said the hijacker apparently intended to land at Greater Southwest International Airport before reversing direction.

Sullivan said there was no one injured in the hijacking incident, which occurred while the plane was en route from here to Tulsa, Okla., with 101 persons on board.

Sullivan said the hijacker was carrying either an automatic rifle or a "grease gun," which he described as being like a machinegun.

The FBI agent also said the hijacker—described as a white male in his 20's—also may be carrying an explosive device.

"The airline is trying to get the money together," Sullivan said, adding that the hijacker intended to return to Lambert-St. Louis International Airport by 10 p.m. (EDT) and wanted to be gone an hour later.

A federal source in Washington monitoring the hijack reported earlier that the hijacker also had demanded five parachutes, a military-style shovel and a portable radar scanning device. The source asked not to be identified.

The FBI at first refused to disclose the demands, but a spokesman at the airport overheard an FBI agent list the demands for chutes, shovel and scanner in a telephone conversation with the FBI office in St. Louis.

The jetliner was ordered back to St. Louis by the gun-wielding hijacker Friday afternoon, federal authorities said. After the plane was refueled and sat on the runway for about 90 minutes, it took off again.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane was commandeered after leaving St. Louis by a man who took a stewardess hostage.

Todd Nelson, a Tulsa, Okla., postman who boarded the plane at St. Louis, said a Catholic priest who was a passenger on the hijacked plane told him the hijacker was carrying a black trombone case.

Nelson said the priest told him the hijacker was about 5 feet 10, with a swarthy complexion and looked like he was wearing a wig.

American Airlines said the flight, No. 119, originated in New York.

President Nixon proclaimed Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York and Virginia disaster regions, thus unleashing a massive flow of federal aid into the area. He did the same for Florida, battered earlier in the week by Agnes, which claimed nine lives there.

Entire cities were evacuated and tens of thousands of refugees were herded into makeshift shelters. Prison convicts joined National Guardsmen in rescue operations.

Some cities were cut in two by normally placid streams that bisect them. Others were isolated, their airports awash, their highways blocked by water or landslides.

Richmond had only about a four day supply of drinking water on hand, after its treatment plant was knocked out. Residents were urged to conserve supplies. Elsewhere in Virginia, Alexandria's water supply was cut by two-thirds and 75,000 residents of Prince William county were entirely without water.

There were reports from other sections of the affected area of raw sewage swept into reservoirs.

In Salamanca, N.Y., a flood protection system recently was completed, its height based on a previous record flood that had forced evacuation of its 7,000 residents. But the latest flood waters spilled six feet over that level, and once again the population fled their homes.

Water from the Rappahannock river reached to the rooftops of homes in Falmouth, Va. Only the roofs and smokestacks of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. plant outside Harrisburg, Pa., were visible above the waters of the Susquehanna.

Helicopters from Lakehurst, N.J. Naval Air station rescued 129 persons marooned in Poots town, Pa.—plus 11 dogs, two ducks, a cat, a raccoon and a rabbit. Their flights were imperiled by 40-foot television antennas and high tension wires and Navy Cmdr. Mike Marriott said:

"I've made rescues at sea day and night for 17 days flying around the clock, but this was the worst."

With ugly caprice, the storm washed a Baltimore woman away from her inundated car, leaving her three small children trapped inside to drown. The mother was rescued eventually. A young couple drowned in their car in Green Lane, Pa. But at Montour Point, N.Y., a man, his wife and a friend were thrown from a car being hurtled along in the creek and were able to save themselves.

A small plane crashed in heavy rain in Oil City, Pa., adding its occupants to the mounting death toll.

Its rivers amok, landslides occurring faster than they could be counted, Pennsylvania was hard hit. It was there that the National Weather Service first caught the significance of the storm's force and later announced: "It is a major disaster."

Flood control workers abandoned sandbagging operations on a Wilkes-Barre dike and a short time later breaks in the levee sent Susquehanna river waters swirling into the city. Mass evacuation of Wilkes-Barre's 65,000 residents already was under way.

Further downstream at Sunbury, 10,000 inhabitants were ordered to leave as the Susquehanna threatened to wash over

OGILVIE COMMUTES OHIO MAN'S SENTENCE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie commuted Friday the sentence of an Ohio man who surrendered June 13 and said he had been living under an assumed name since 1934 as a fugitive.

He is Ethel Nolder, 65, of Euclid, Ohio, who disappeared 38 years ago while on parole from the Pontiac Branch of the Illinois State Penitentiary.

Nolder walked into the prison this month, said he had lived since 1934 as Norman P. Gorby and was "tired of running."

Money Bill For Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill authorizing $325 million in grants and loan guarantees for the National Railroad Passenger Corp. plus $2 million a year for service links to Canada and Mexico was signed by President Nixon Friday.

In an effort to spur the financially troubled corporation, known as Amtrak, toward greater profits, the legislation also cuts the $125,000 annual salary of the corporation's president to $60,000 with anything more to come only from net profit.

Amtrak, a government-backed corporation created under a 1970 law to run the nation's intercity passenger trains until July 1973, began life with a $40 million federal grant, $100 million in loan guarantees, and $197 million from participating railroads.

The legislation signed by Nixon adds authorization for $225 million in federal grants and makes a two-stage boost of $100 million in the loan guarantee ceiling. In addition, it calls for $2 million annually to help set up service between the U.S. network and Montreal and Vancouver, Canada, and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

Other provisions of the new legislation include a federal audit of financial transactions of any railroad with which Amtrak has a contract to perform intercity passenger service, with auditing limited to matters needed for a check of Amtrak's financial conditions.

Furthermore, the legislation requires Amtrak to boost revenue by carrying mail and express; calls for detailed monthly reports on revenue and expenses plus patronage and on-time performance of trains, and urges the corporation to directly control and operate as much of its service as possible.

WRIGHT COMPLETES ARMY COURSE

FT. POLK, La. — Army Private Richard G. Wright Jr., 19, whose parents live in Alexander, Ill., recently completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry Training Center, Ft. Polk, La.

He received general training as a light weapons infantryman and as a mortar and recoilless rifle crewman, in addition to specialized weapons instruction. He also was taught the proper use of high explosives and the placement, detection and disarming of mines.

Teamwork was emphasized while he learned to work as a member of a rifle squad, mortar squad or direct fire section.

Pvt. Wright entered the Army in January of this year and completed basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1970 graduate of Franklin High School.

PITTSFIELD MAN RESIGNS FROM CITY COUNCIL

PITTSFIELD — Gerald Dimmitt, a member of the Pittsfield city council for eight years in the second ward, has resigned. His statement was read at the Tuesday night, June 13, meeting. He has served on the finance committee, street and alley committee, public health and safety, publicity and development and endorsed the recently constructed public housing project. He also was an opponent of the Pittsfield airport which is to be built northeast of the city.

The council appointed Kent Zimmerman, Gene Hoover and Jim Sanderson to the library board to replace outgoing members, Dr. E. C. Thurman, Mrs. Marjorie Williams and Hiram McKenna. The appointment of Lawrence Bradburn by Mayor Frank E. Penstone to the Zoning Board of Appeals was approved.

It was announced that bids for the Pittsfield airport would be opened Friday, June 30, 10 a.m. by the Department of Aeronautics in Springfield.

The council will advertise for bids June 28 on the construction of water lines to be installed to be opened July 13. Bids are to be opened July 5 for the purchase of a new pickup truck for the Gas department.

DALEY CHALLENGERS LOSE COURT FIGHT

CHICAGO (AP) — Leaders of a challenge to Mayor Richard J. Daley and 58 other uncommitted delegates to the Democratic National Convention lost a bid in U.S. District Court Friday to bar Daley supporters from a scheduled caucus to complete selection of an alternate slate.

Judge Frank McGarr ruled he had no jurisdiction in the emergency petition brought by attorneys for the challengers, headed by Alderman William S. Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Singer and Jackson said at an earlier news conference that federal marshals may be necessary to protect persons attending the scheduled caucus Saturday. Daley supporters, some led by Daley's son, Richard M., used violence and obscenities to disrupt seven meetings Thursday night, the two men declared.

An alderman loyal to Daley called the Thursday meetings held by the independents "a sham."

Daniel Walker, Democratic candidate for governor, denounced actions by some supporters of Daley, who he said, disrupted the caucuses.

"I cannot remain silent about the violence and disruptive activities that took place last (Thursday) night when law abiding citizens of Illinois met in a democratic fashion to select delegates to challenge members of the Illinois delegation," Walker said in a statement.

"Strong arm tactics by machine politicians marked most of the challenge meetings and turned democratic meetings into brawls," Walker continued. "I condemn such tactics regardless of the political consequences."

The challengers, led by Singer and Jackson, said they will ask

Object To Rate Hike

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission hearings on Central Illinois Public Service Co.'s proposed $20 million-a-year electric and gas rate increase opened Friday, with complaints from six communities — mostly about service.

Mayors of Shelbyville, Carbondale, Murphysboro, Herrin, Lovington and Loami voiced opposition to the increase which would apply to CIPS' 65-county area in central and southern Illinois.

Company officials have announced the electric rates would rise 18 per cent and the natural gas rates about 12 per cent.

The utility serves nearly 273,000 customers with electricity and 137,000 with natural gas.

A CIPS electric customer who now pays a monthly electric bill of $15 would pay an added $2.70 a month, or nine cents a day, officials said, while natural gas customers with a $15 monthly bill would pay about $1.60 a month more.

Although no witness appeared to present the prepared testimony for the utility, Charles Bane, Chicago attorney for the company, made an opening statement. The hearing was continued to Sept. 13.

The commission has 11 months to decide whether to allow the rates to go in effect.

Bane said the company is embarking on a necessary construction program and must make its earnings more attractive to sell construction stock and bonds totalling $450 million.

Bane said expenses are rising as the result of extra equipment to control pollution, higher tax and labor costs.

John Meyer of Danville, spokesman for attorneys representing the communities, universities and industries protesting the proposed increase at once attacked the company's case.

"The whole case is based on a test year ending June 30, 1972," said Meyer, "which means it is impossible for people objecting to the increase to properly cross-examine and determine the true facts. It is impossible because two months of the company data is pure projection and is not based on actual experience."

In his prepared testimony, CIPS President K. E. Bowen said:

"The use of a June 30, 1972 or later test date is appropriate because of the need to include Coffeen Unit No. 2 (a generating plant which is expected to go into service in June.

Daley Challengers Lose Court Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Leaders of a challenge to Mayor Richard J. Daley and 58 other uncommitted delegates to the Democratic National Convention lost a bid in U.S. District Court Friday to bar Daley supporters from a scheduled caucus to complete selection of an alternate slate.

Judge Frank McGarr ruled he had no jurisdiction in the emergency petition brought by attorneys for the challengers, headed by Alderman William S. Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

"Strong arm tactics by machine politicians marked most of the challenge meetings and turned democratic meetings into brawls," Walker continued. "I condemn such tactics regardless of the political consequences."

The challengers, led by Singer and Jackson, said they will ask state and national leaders to denounce the disruptive action.

The challengers had met in eight caucuses and selected 51 delegates. They will meet Saturday to select eight at-large delegates. The rival group may be seated at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach if the party credentials committee upholds its challenge next week.

In Washington, Sen. George S. McGovern's press secretary issued a statement deploring "the apparent acts of disruptive violence that occurred" at some caucus meetings.

"While Sen. McGovern has not and does not at this time support any one side involved in this challenge," said Kirby Jones, the press secretary, "he fully supports the right of all individuals and groups to exercise their right as mandated by the Democratic party reform guidelines to present challenge cases."

"Charity begins at home," murmured East. "Why try it at the bridge table?"

South ducked the first heart; won the continuation and led a spade to dummy's nine. East won with the queen and led his last heart.

South won that trick; led his last spade; finessed successfully against West's king; discarded three clubs on the rest of the spades; conceded a trick to the ace of diamonds and made the rest for a very good score of plus 630.

It wasn't a top score since a couple of North players made 11 tricks in a spade contract, but it was a lot better than being set one or two tricks which is what would have happened if West had just thought of playing second hand high and played his king the first time spades were led.

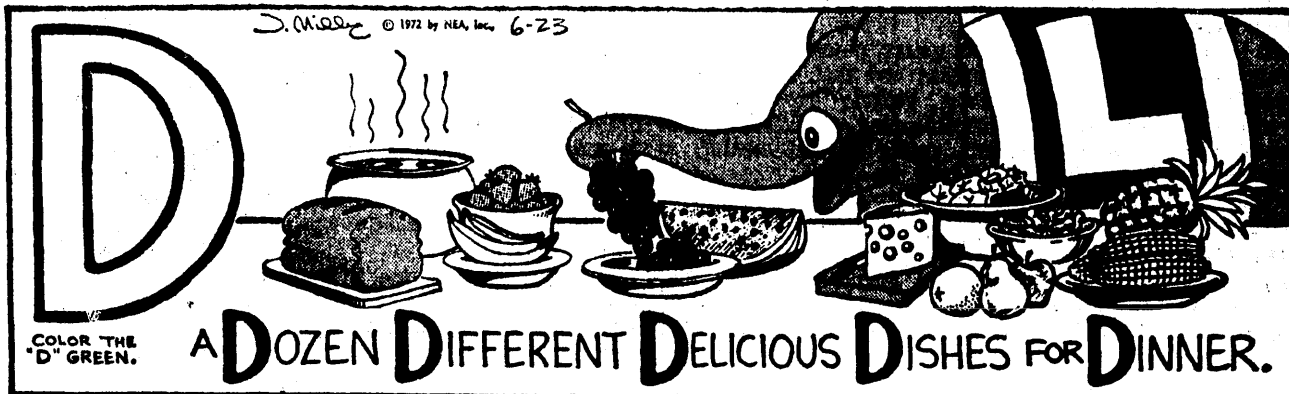

This second hand high play would have held South to just one spade trick provided that East was careful to take his ace of diamonds at the right time. It might even have held him to no spade tricks at all if South had let the king of spades hold and tried a finesse against the queen later on.

While on the subject of charity we might point out that East wasn't as tough with South as he might have been. If East had ducked that first spade (a very tough play) South would not have been able to make more than nine tricks.

Saving And Wasting Time

If we're to believe what the experts tell us, pushbutton living is just around the corner. And obviously we're going to have a crisis in leftover time.

Time and motion engineers are constantly doing studies on how to save time, but they seem to gear their research to milling machine and punch press operations. Few of them waste time on the housewife's jobs.

One of the best ways a woman can save time in the home is to use things for what they're intended.

As an example, a woman can save precious hours by buying a bedspread and using it on the bed instead of cutting it up into beach towels. She can also buy curtains and use them at the windows instead of buying beach towels and sewing them into curtains.

However, our real problem is to use the time we're saving. Or, how to waste it.

Much time can be wasted by spending hours at the kitchen

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Skin Pigment

Disturbs Reader

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb--I am 53

years old, a black woman of light-brown complexion. For quite a few years now, my skin has been turning very dark-brown. It started with the old-fashioned liver spots, but has spread until now it covers the greatest area of my face. I do not have this darkening of the skin on any other part of my body. My doctor says it is no disease as long as there are no bumps or eruptions, but it seems to be continuously spreading. When I use a good make-up, it is hardly noticeable, but nevertheless it is still there and looks just awful without make-up. Is there any way of stopping this or do you feel I need treatment?

Dear Reader--Skin color,

black, brown or white and shades of them, is basically dependent upon how much melanin pigment is produced by pigment cells in the skin.

There are about the same number of these pigment-producing cells in everybody's skin, but some of them produce more pigment than others.

Your doctor is probably right in saying that you don't have any disease, if all that you have is a change in pigment of the skin. There are a lot of reasons for such pigment changes. Most of them are relatively harmless.

In a young woman who might be taking birth control pills, this type of response can sometimes occur, producing increased pigmented spots on the face.

It also occurs sometimes during pregnancy and in other people it occurs with advancing years. Exposure to sun seems to enhance pigmentation.

The best thing I can suggest is to use a sun-screen type cosmetic spread over the area of increased pigmentation when you are out in the sun. This will help keep the sun's rays from activating the cells to produce more pigment in that area. I know this is a certain amount of bother, but the more you protect these areas in the sun the less pigmentation they will develop. But I would like to relieve your mind by telling you that these types of changes are not an indication of poor health or skin disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb--I am 42

years old and eat radishes by the bunches. Someone told me they can be very harmful. Is this true?

Dear Reader--Nonsense.

Some people with digestive problems have difficulty with radishes, onions and similar foods, but otherwise there is nothing to it. Enjoy your radishes. They are a lot better for you than a gallon of coffee a day or all the sweets a lot of people eat.

Polly's Pointers

Own Property Invaded By Danger On Wheels

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY--My Pet Peeve (really a worry) is the children who are permitted to ride bicycles and bikes in drive-ways and on the asphalt slabs of neighbors. Everyone is ex-pected to watch out for children playing in the streets and we do but on one's own property it is a slightly different matter. Could anyone pay for a child unfortunately run over and could you ever forget you had hurt or even killed a little neighbor? Whose burden and responsibility is this?--ELLEN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY--The day after my husband painted a kitchen shelf the paint was dry so I neatly placed a set of glasses on it. When I took one down to use, the glass had a terrible odor of paint. I have tried soaking them in baking soda and water but with no success for the paint odor remains. Please help me as we cannot use any of these glasses and I would really hate to have to dispose of them.--VERONICA

DEAR POLLY--My answer is for Maria who wrote that she was crocheting a ripple afghan and the sides do not always have straight and even sides. You DO NOT skip a stitch at the beginning of each row. When a row is finished you chain one and turn and then single crochet in each of the first two stitches, then skip a stitch and crochet in the next 11 stitches and continue as the directions say. I feel sure her mistake was in skipping that first stitch and do hope this helps her.--RUTH

DEAR POLLY--When our son was born we received so many beautiful cards that were much to pretty to discard or hide away. We bought an inexpensive bulletin board, antiqued the frame, cut the cards in interesting shapes and worked them into a collage. After the collage was all pasted on it was sprayed with a plastic sealer that can be bought at any hardware store. This is so bright and colorful hanging in baby's room that even he likes to look at it and as he gets older it will become a sort of story book.--GERI

Exceptional Child Touches Most

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of many books and articles on exceptional children, Willard Abraham, Ph.D., is chairman of the Department of Special Education at Arizona State University. This is one of a series of articles written for Newspaper Enterprise Association and this newspaper.)

(First in a Series)
By Dr. Willard Abraham
Is there an "exceptional" child in your family?

Think about it for a minute. The answer probably will be "Yes." Check out your own youngsters, nieces and nephews, cousins and their various relatives. Include any who have handicapping conditions (physical, emotional and mental) as well as the gifted.

The facts point to one in every third family who is special in some way and one for every pair of grandparents. If your family was skipped, a neighbor or friend can perhaps tab two in theirs.

Not so long ago there was a kind of attic-and-cellar complex about these children (except maybe for some of the bright ones). Parents sometimes hid behind shame, secrecy and denial. Then Pearl Buck wrote about her daughter, and Dale Evans about hers, and the first major breakthrough came.

The movies helped, too. Films like "Charly," "The Miracle Worker," "A Child Is Waiting" and "Johnny Belinda." Recent ones show that mental retardation can be absorbed into our society in a normal kind of way, vividly demonstrated in "The Last Picture Show," "Straw Dogs" and "Ryan's Daughter."

Another breakthrough came through the famous families of Roosevelt, Kennedy and Humphrey and the handicapping conditions with which they lived.

The final page isn't written yet but we are a great deal closer to accepting children who differ and to stressing their strengths, at home and in schools, jobs and communities.

Once they stopped hiding their children and they own guilt feelings, parents made their needs known, loudly and clearly. They knocked on the doors of legislators and school boards, worked ACLD (Association for Children with Learning Difficulties) and with professionals individually and through organizations like NARC (National Association for Retarded Children).

Although more than half of the seven million handicapped children in the world's richest country still receive no special educational help, we've made progress. All states now provide special school funding for these youngsters. Even the gifted are in the act, but with very limited financial support and in only a few states.

Other trends are upward, too. Like these:

— "Resource" teachers to work with specific needs of youngsters who are in regular classrooms most of the time with learning disabilities. Fewer PKU (phenylketonuria) and rubella problems. — Recognition that the handicapped can often work, earn and pay taxes, instead of being society's burden.

— Understanding that programs, parental acceptance and teaching skills help solve problems.

— The muddling "through" of our gifted seen for what it often is, a tragic loss of much of our greatest talent.

Minority youngsters now identified as educationally handicapped and not erroneously labeled as mentally retarded on the basis of invalid testing.

Contributions of sound early educational programs through professional nursery school settings (not the store-front, "Ma-and-Pa" variety).

And if you know some fellow who says it's all something else's problem, don't get upset. He'll find out, perhaps earlier than he thinks, that the burden of child exceptionalities lives with all of us. With him, too.

(NEXT: There Is No Average Child)

The child who can't see, hear or reason, whose tantrums or seizures are close to uncontrollable or who surprises the neighbors with his extensive vocabulary, delightful sense of humor or skills at writing, music or art needs our understanding, encouragement and help.

"We are not alone," said James Hilton, in the title of a popular book years ago. It applies to us as parents of children who differ. Teaching medical, psychological and other professional personnel are on call, supplementing the insights, plans and love we have for these youngsters.

And if you know some fellow who says it's all something else's problem, don't get upset. He'll find out, perhaps earlier than he thinks, that the burden of child exceptionalities lives with all of us. With him, too.

Jamieson Sweeps To Western Lead

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — Jimmy Jamieson, suddenly thrust into the role of gallery favorite, responded with a four-under-par 67 Friday and established a two-stroke lead after the second round of the $150,000 Western Open golf tournament. Jamieson, a 29-year-old pro from Moline, Ill., who has yet to win in four years on the tour, had a total of 135 for 36 holes on the windy Sunset Ridge Country Club course, a 6,718-yard layout in Chicago's suburban North Shore area. It put Jamieson seven under par for the tournament and two strokes in front of rejuvenated veteran Doug Sanders, who shot a 66-137. J.C. Snead was next at 67-138. R. H. Sikes, who shared the first-round lead with Jamieson, slipped to a 71 for 139. Hale Irwin and Steve Oppermann were the only others under par after two rounds. Each had a 72-141. Tom Weiskopf and former Masters champion Charles Coody headed a group of more than a half-dozen at 142 as the brutal weather conditions again helped boost scores to surprising heights. Tommy Aaron, a heavily-bundled veteran from Georgia who almost withdrew after shooting a fat 78 in Thursday's first round, romped in with the days best round, a 65. He needed only 25 putts. Billy Casper, one of the few of the game's giants playing in this old tournament, improved to a 69-144. Defending champion Bruce Crampton had another 73 and was far back at 146. Tony Jacklin of England took a 73 for 148. Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and U.S. Open champion, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player all ekipped this 69th Western. Peterson, Allen Guide Yankees To 4-1 Decision CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Allen stroked his first home run of the season and Fritz Peterson scattered six hits as the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 4-1 in an American League baseball game Friday night. The victory was the Yankees' sixth straight for their longest winning streak in two years. Allen delivered his homer, a two-run shot over the right field fence, in the third, following Horace Clarke's one-out infield single. The Indians got one run back in their half of the third on singles by losing pitcher Milt Wilcox and Del Unser and a fielder's choice. The Yankees came back with two more runs in the fifth, when they knocked out Wilcox, 6-7, on Peterson's single, Bobby Murcer's two-out triple, and a single by Roy White. RECORD ATTENDANCE NEW YORK (AP) — A record attendance of 8,192,034 for the regular season and the 1972 Stanley Cup playoffs was announced by the National Hockey League Friday. President Clarence Campbell said the regular season attendance was 7,609,368. Attendance was 562,666 for the 36 playoff games. The regular season attendance was 351,691 more than the 7,257,677 for the 1971 campaign and also marked the 12th straight year that attendance figures have been up. In 1961 the NHL, then a six-team league compared to 14 teams now, drew 2,317,142 for the regular season.

Elvin Hayes Traded

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association Friday traded center Elvin Hayes to the Baltimore Bullets in exchange for forward Jack Marin and undisclosed future considerations. Hayes, 26, a former University of Houston All-American, has been with the Rockets for his entire professional career. He spent three years with the team when it was based in San Diego, and last year in Houston. Hayes was the Rockets' No. 1 draft choice in 1968. He led the NBA in scoring as a rookie with a 28.4 average. He has not missed a game as a pro and goes into next season with a 328-game streak. He led the Rockets in scoring for the fourth straight year last season, averaging 25.2. His career average is 27.4. Marin has been with Baltimore for all of his six years as a professional. Last year he averaged 22.3 points a game and led the league in free throw shooting, edging out Calvin Murphy of the Rockets, .894 to .890. Marin has a career scoring average of 18.7 points. He was the Bullets' first round draft choice in 1966 after being the fourth all-time leading scorer at Duke University.

NORTHBROOK, ILL.: Jim Jamieson of Moline, Ill., bidding for his first victory as a professional, gives out with a little kick watching a birdie putt fall short of the cup on the sixth hole during the second round of the Western Open at Sunset Ridge Country Club Friday. Jamieson finished the round with a four under par 67. He has a 36-hole total of 135, seven under par for the tournament. (UPI Telephoto)

Says Congress Should Free Pro Sports Owners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam Ervin said Friday that Congress should free all professional sports team owners to take their teams anywhere and free players to strike any deal they want. The North Carolina Democrat testified before a Senate commerce subcommittee against a bill which would create a Federal Sports Commission. He said such an agency "could stigmatize professional sports and institutionalize many of the barbarian player-management practices which now exist throughout the sports system." National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell also testified. They added their names to the list of major sports figures generally opposed to the commission idea. "I have concluded that professional football is the most over-supervised, over-examined, and over-regulated business in America today," Rozelle said. If football cannot solve its own problems regarding fans, television, players, and stadium authorities, he said, "the sport itself will bear the penalty." Ervin opposes another bill which would allow the merger of the American and National Basketball Associations. He said it would create another monopoly similar to baseball and football with their common draft of players and reserve-type clauses which bind a player to one team. The draft and the clause should be specifically outlawed, Ervin said. "Pirating is as American as apple pie," Ervin said, if that means one basketball player can jump to another league after completing his contract. The contract should be observed by the player, however, he said. The commission would supervise terms of drafting amateur athletes, televising of games and franchise transfers from one city to another. But, Ervin went on in referring to franchise transfers, "if one city loses a team, another gets one." Sports is a business, he said, and should be treated like all the others. "I have more faith in the economic marketplace deciding this issue than a sports commissioner," Ervin said. "We don't have a federal movie commissioner settling contractual matters between studios and the stars and that shouldn't be the case in sports," the senator said. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn opposed the proposed commission as "not necessary or desirable as far as baseball is concerned." He added, "I do not feel that I have failed to reflect the interest of the public in carrying out my duties."

Brett Pitches Milwaukee Past Old Mates, 8-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ken Brett, a former Boston pitcher, gave up just three hits in eight innings and Milwaukee exploded for six runs in the fifth inning as the Brewers beat the Red Sox 8-1 in the American League Friday night. Rick Auerbach drove in the Brewers' first two runs. He doubled following a single by Bob Heise in the second, then singled after two walks and a fielder's choice in the fourth. Boston used three pitchers trying to halt the Brewers' spree in the fifth. Ron Theobald and Dave May singled to lead off the inning, then Theobald scored on George Scott's single. An error filled the bases before Ellie Rodriguez drove in two runs with a single and John Briggs drove in another with his base hit. After Heise popped out, Auerbach singled in another run. The sixth tally came when Brett hit into a fielder's choice and Boston shortstop Luis Aparicio threw wide to first trying for a double play. Boston came up with a run in the eighth when pinch hitter Phil Gagliano walked, stole second and scored on a single by Aparicio. Brett, 3-8, had not won a baseball game since May 10. He hurled hitless ball for three innings before Tommy Harper blooped a single for Boston leading off the fourth. Billings' Hit Pushes Rangers Past Chisox 4-3

ARLINGTON (AP) — Dick Billings' eighth inning single broke a tie and the Texas Rangers whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in American League baseball Friday night. Dave Nelson opened the eighth with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice. Then, after Ted Ford walked, Billings delivered his tie-breaking hit. The White Sox tied the score in the top of the seventh when Mike Andrews and Dick Allen drew out walks. After Carlos May popped out, Rick Reichardt and Jimmy Little delivered run-scoring singles. Lytle's hit was his third of the game. Lytle had doubled home Chicago's first run in the fourth inning following a leadoff double by May. Frank Howard's fifth homer of the year tied it for the Rangers in the bottom of the fourth, then Ford tagged a two-run homer in the bottom of the sixth, putting Texas on top. Clemente And Blass Help Top Cubs, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Roberto Clemente drove in two runs with a windblown triple in a three-run fourth inning Friday and Steve Blass gained his eighth straight victory as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2. Blass, 9-1 and 5-0 against the Cubs dating back to 1970, needed relief help from Dave Giusti after he walked Rick Monday with one out in the ninth inning. Giusti got Ron Santo to hit into a game-ending double play. The Pirates, leaders in the National League East, scored three runs in the fourth against Ferguson Jenkins, 8-6. Dave Cash opened the fourth with a single and moved to third on Vic Davallillo's double. Then both scored on Clemente's wind-blown shot to center which eluded Monday. Al Oliver brought in Clemente with a single. Pittsburgh added a run in the eighth against reliever Dan McGinn on a walk, a wild pitch and Manny Sanguien's single. The Cubs broke through against Blass in the sixth when singles by Don Kessinger, Billy Williams and Jim Hickman produced a run. Singles by Monday and Santo, a sacrifice and an infield out gave the Cubs another run in the seventh. Judge Rules Barry Still A Warrior

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge ruled Friday that Rick Barry has a valid contract with the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli issued a preliminary injunction which prohibits Barry, a star with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, from playing for any team except the Warriors. The ruling is the latest in a three-year court battle for the services of Barry. Judge Zirpoli ruled that Barry's contract with the Warriors is binding and valid and that the Warriors would suffer "irreparable and permanent injuries" unless Barry plays for the NBA team. The 6-foot-7 Barry began his pro career with the Warriors in 1965 but jumped to the Oakland Oaks of the ABA in 1967. Barry signed a five-year, $1-million contract with the Warriors in 1969, which said he would return when his ABA commitments ended. But he also signed a new ABA contract in 1970 with the Nets, which contained the phrase "...subject to such legally binding obligations as Barry may now have with the Warriors." Judge Zirpoli ruled that Barry willingly signed the contract with the Warriors. While Barry was under contract to the Oaks, another federal judge, the late Gerald S. Levin, had ordered Barry to fulfill his contract with Oakland. Zirpoli's order dissolved that injunction. The judge directed the Warriors to post $200,000 security with the court in the event that when the suit is finally settled it is found Barry has been "wrongfully enjoined." Barry's attorney, Frederick Furth, argued against the injunction, claiming that forcing Barry back into the NBA would be "enforcing an illegal contract." He contended the NBA had violated antitrust laws because teams in the league pooled their money to help the Warriors make the $1 million offer to Barry. "They want to destroy the ABA," charged Furth. Roy Boe, owner of the Nets, said in New York that he would have "no comment until our attorneys have had a chance to read the injunction. Rick wants to stay in New York and I am hopeful we can work something out." Boe said Barry was in Puerto Rico and was due back in New York Sunday.

Qualifying Runs For 500-Miler Are Postponed

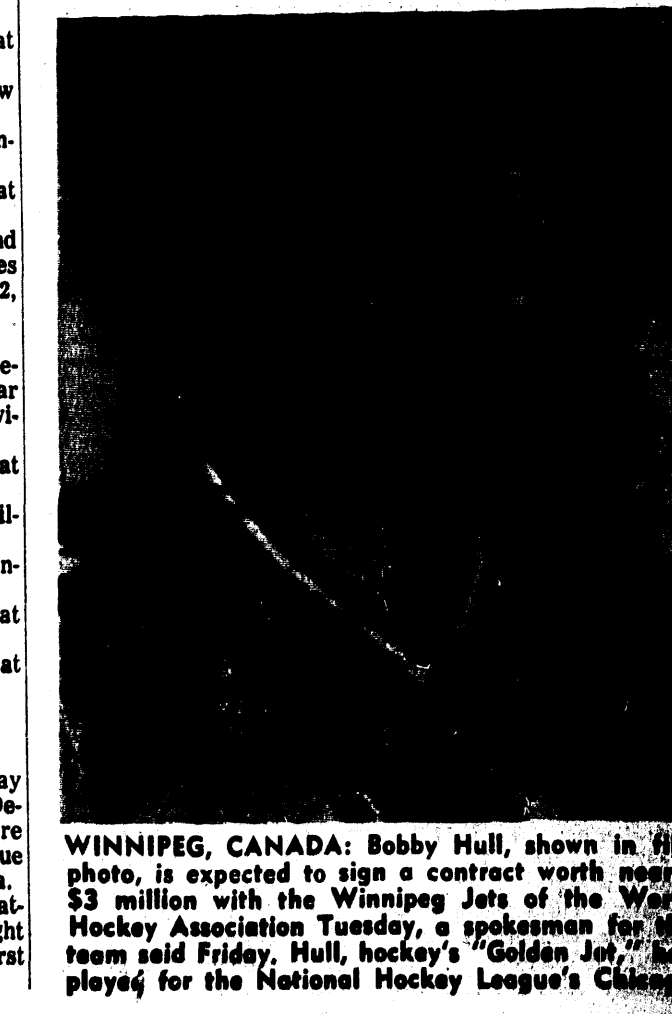

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Weeklong rains and serious flooding conditions in Northeastern Pennsylvania Friday forced postponement of qualification runs for the Schaefer 500-mile auto race at Pocono International Raceway. Dick King, director of competition for the sanctioning United States Auto Club, said time trials to determine a 33-car starting field will be held next Thursday and Friday. The race, second in USAC's triple crown of championship racing and worth about $400,000, is scheduled July 2. Time trials originally had been set to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, continuing through Sunday. But relentless rains associated with tropical storm Agnes wiped out five of the six days of pre-qualifying practice. Only 29 of the 43 driver entries were able to get their cars on the track last Tuesday, the only day the course was suitable for competition. Bill Marvel, Pocono's general manager, said the facility will reopen Sunday afternoon, weather permitting. A full schedule of practice will be set for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Bobby Unser, driving the same Dan Gurney Olsonite Eagle that he qualified at Indianapolis at 195 miles an hour toured Pocono's tri-cornered layout at 165.299 m.p.h. in practice Tuesday. That's more than 12 miles faster than Mark Donohue's lap record of 172.967 set last year.

Jay Carlton Signs With Colo. State

Jay Carlton, Pittsfield High School's quarterback for the past two years on the state's winningest high school football team, has signed a full NCAA grant-in-aid with Colorado State University, member of the Western Athletic Conference. Carlton was an All-Conference selection in football, basketball, and baseball as a junior. The 6-0, 195 lb. quarterback, who guided the Saukees to two consecutive undefeated seasons, earned 9 varsity letters in 2½ years at Pittsfield High School. The signal caller on last year's undefeated Saukee team that has now won 54 consecutive victories, received All-State recognition on several All-State teams and was selected as Co-captain and Co-most valuable player by his teammates. "Jay Carlton was a tremendous asset to our entire athletic program and school from the moment he arrived, until he graduated. His contribution to our football program the past two seasons was as great as any player I can think of. In addition to being a fine quarterback, Jay handled our kicking, played in the defensive secondary and was an excellent punter. Colorado State was so impressed with his punting that they plan to bring Jay in with the varsity this fall. His career in football at Pittsfield was remarkable when you consider the transition he made. For two years, he was a running back at Jerseyville High School. We converted Jay to a quarterback his junior year at Pittsfield and his attitude, dedication, and hard work were clearly evident during the past football season," commented former Pittsfield High grid coach Don Pollard. Sports Afield magazine says 67 firearms bills are pending in Congress. The New York Yankees will hold their 28th annual Old Timers Day July 22.

Is Always Busy

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—This man was talking about something very close to his heart.

He was talking about the hottest club in baseball, the Oakland A's, and their manager, Dick Williams.

"Dick Williams is doing an outstanding job," he said. "I think I'm well qualified to speak on that subject because I've had some experience hiring managers the past few years. Williams has great rapport with the players, he's aggressive in his thinking, and in this day and age when a manager must have the ability to communicate with players, he does that beautifully. Even to the extent of wearing long hair and a moustache, the same as his players. He cooperates with the front office. He also has great rapport with the general manager and the owner of the club, both of whom happen to be the same."

By this time you know who's doing all the talking about Dick Williams.

That's right, his boss, Charlie Finley, who has hired 10 managers, including the same one twice, during the 12 years he has had his club and who changes them the same way some people change plane reservations.

Some of Charlie Finley's critics say you'll automatically know when the millennium is here because that will be the day Charlie says nice things about his manager.

In that case, the millennium is here.

This is the day. Finley couldn't possibly have picked a better one because at the moment his A's happen to be the best club in baseball.

They have a sizzling .679 winning percentage which not only leads the American League West but all the other clubs in the majors as well.

By one of life's little ironies, the club with the worst major league record happens to be in this same area. That would be Horace Stoneham's San Francisco Giants with a tired .333

Two More Prep Standouts Are Headed For WIU

MACOMB — Two more Illinois prep basketball standouts have signed to play their college ball here at Western Illinois University.

Leatherneck head coach Guy Ricci announced Friday that Provost East High School's 6-0 playmaking guard Tom Fowlkes and Batavia High School's sharpshooting 6-3 forward center Ralph Ledbetter are coming to Western.

A two-time Chicago Tribune All-Area Selection and special mention All-Stater, Fowlkes is the sixth leading scorer in Provost East history. His team's leading scorer with a 16-point average, he was a unanimous All-Suburban Conference pick twice and he led his team to the conference championship.

Marshall Stoner, a former WIU great who is now coaching at Willowbrook High School, said of Fowlkes, "Tom is reminiscent of Coleman Carrodine. He is ultra quick and can go to the basket against the big guys as well as anyone I've ever seen. He made All-League in what, in my opinion, is the toughest league in the suburbs. There is no question in my mind with regard to his ability to compete."

Fowlkes' coach, Glenn Whitenberg, added, "Tom played guard alongside Dave Roberts, an all-stater, and starting guard on the University of Illinois freshman team this past year. I believe Tom is a better all-around player than Dave."

Ledbetter led his team in scoring with an 18.8 average in a fine 21-5 season that included a victory over the highly-regarded Peoria Manual Rams, who finished fourth in the Class AA state tournament.

He shot a phenomenal 62 percent from the field for the season. He was a Guilford Turkey All-Tournament selection, first team Little Seven Conference choice as its scoring champion, and received special mention for the All-Chicago Area and Champaign News-Gazette All-State squad and honorable mention for the Chicago Daily News All-State team.

"We feel that Ralph has the ability and attitude to become a fine college basketball player," commented Ricci. "He is a hard nosed player with great shooting ability."

"We are delighted that he and Tom (Fowlkes) have selected Western."

Mayberry Boosts Kansas City To 5-0 Decision

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Mayberry drove in four runs, three of them with an eighth-inning home run—Friday night, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 5-0 American League baseball victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Mayberry's two-out single in the sixth inning drove home Richie Scheinblum with the game's first run and Paul Splittorff protected the slim edge until the eighth inning.

With two out, Lou Piniella doubled and Ed Kirkpatrick was hit by a pitch. Scheinblum laced a single, scoring Piniella, and then Mayberry tagged his homer, wrapping up the victory for the Royals.

Splittorff, 6-4, allowed seven hits and was in constant trouble in the early innings. He struck out nine and walked two.

CHICAGO: Cubs' Rick Monday slides into second but is forced out as Pittsburgh Pirates second baseman Dave Cash throws to first on attempted double play in second inning of game Friday afternoon. Quarry Confident Before Ali Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A confident Jerry Quarry declares "I don't have anything to fear" for his return bout against former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali on Tuesday night.

"He doesn't hit hard," claims the Southern California Irishman who lost to Ali in 1970 via a third-round knockout in Atlanta when the fight was stopped because of a cut.

"He came across with a right and cut me," explains Quarry of the gash above his left eye. "He didn't hit hard. It was just one of those things. You can't imagine how unlucky I am at times."

"That cut eye was a fluke and you tell me I didn't hit him with a left to the belly that hurt him in the second round."

Asked about the fast Ali's dancing movements around the ring, Quarry replies, "what if he doesn't get a chance to move? Think of that. I'm stronger than he is, not as big, but I know I'm stronger."

West 1 TD Pick Over East Today

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The West rates a touchdown favorite over the East in Saturday night's 12th annual coaches All-America football game based on the credentials of quarterbacks Jerry Tagge of Nebraska and Jack Milder of Oklahoma.

But unheralded East signal callers Paul Miller of North Carolina and Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State could surprise. Miller and Gilliam were added to Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant's East team when Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan of Auburn declined an invitation to play.

"I figure Coach Bryant would trade both of us for one of them," joked Miller, who is aware most of the pre-game publicity has centered on Milder and Tagge. "But do not write us off, Joe has a heckuva arm."

Bryant has been far from displeased with his quarterbacks in practice.

"I haven't seen Gilliam throw under pressure, but he has one of the quickest releases I have seen," said Alabama's Bryant, who coached the man considered to have the quickest wrist in football, Joe Namath of the New York Jets.

Bryant said of Gilliam: "He can get rid of the football. The boom, and it is gone. And he can run a 4.5 in the 40. That's moving."

Neither Bryant nor West Coach Chuck Fairbanks plan to name a starting quarterback before game time.

Fairbanks will use Milder to operate the triple option Wishbone-T while Tagge will operate from the I and spread formation.

"We are in good shape at quarterback," said Fairbanks. "Both are good players."

A crowd of 40,000 is expected in Jones Stadium for the 8:45 p.m. EDT kickoff that will be nationally televised by ABC.

"The chances are it will be an exciting game because the players on both teams have a great deal of personal pride," Fairbanks said.

Bryant said he does not believe it would be a "typical" all-star game. "We will not throw the ball three times and punt," he said. "Both teams will throw the ball, but you will probably see more running than usual at an all-star game."

Johnny Musso of Alabama heads the East ground troops, while Nebraska's Jeff Kinney and Houston's Tom Moizick are the headliners on the West.

The West holds a 6-5 lead in the series thanks to a 35-28 victory last year on Chuck Hixon's 23-yard touchdown pass with 31 seconds left.

In the Reds' eighth, Rose walked, moved to second on Morgan's bunt single and scored on Bobby Tolan's single to left center, Morgan moving to third. After Tolan stole second and Bench was intentionally walked, Tony Perez hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Morgan. After pinch hitter Joe Hague struck out, Denis Menke doubled, driving in Tolan.

The lone Houston run came in the ninth inning when, with one out, Concepcion's throwing error allowed Jim Wynn to reach first. A single by Lee May moved Wynn to third and he scored on a wild pitch by Grimsley, 4-2.

Torrez Records Eighth Of Year Via 2-1 Triumph

MONTREAL (AP) — Right-hander Mike Torrez scattered nine hits and the Montreal Expos rallied for two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning Friday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in National League baseball action.

Torrez, 8-3, and Jim Nash were locked in a scoreless duel through the first seven innings before the Phillies pushed across a run in the top of the eighth to take the lead.

Nash opened the inning with a bunt single, went to second on a sacrifice, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Oscar Gamble's single. Greg Luzinski followed with another hit but Torrez got Willie Montanez for the third out.

Ron Hunt opened the Expos' eighth with a single and Mike Jorgensen bunted, but both runners were safe when Terry Harmon threw wildly. Hunt wound up on third and Jorgensen on second.

Roegge Lake And Campgrounds Now Open To Campers And Fishermen

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roegge of Rural Route One, Jacksonville, Ill., have opened their beautiful lake to fishermen, travel trailers, campers etc. The lake and heavily shaded camping area is located 6 miles Northwest of Jacksonville.

The lake contains a main body of water (12 to 18 feet deep) with three separate arms running off in a southerly direction. The water is clear and clean, making an ideal situation for Bass, big Bluegill and Redear Sunfish. I have personally fished this lake from the banks. I have caught big Bluegill, and Bass up to three lbs. on spinning lures. There have been reports of Bass being taken that weighed over 4 lbs. Roegge Lake was stocked three years ago with Bass, Channel Catfish, and Bluegills. The Redear Sunfish have been added more recently.

The county road going to Roegge Lake is in an excellent state of repair. The Roegge Lake roads are good, and freshly graveled where necessary. The entire area is well kept and the lush bluegrass is mowed regularly.

I was really impressed with the shaded camping area. It is situated in a beautiful large grove of stately shade trees, with plenty of room for children to play out of the hot sun. Picnic tables are available, as well as an outdoor toilet facility. The wells and electrical hookups are not yet complete, so be sure to bring your own water and lighting system. Mr. Roegge does have one excellent well, for public use, near the office. I personally tasted the water, and found it to be some of the finest well water I have ever tasted in this area.

The camping and fishing fees are very reasonable. Camping spots, picnic tables etc. are on a first come first served basis. For people who might want to go out just to fish there is a limit of two Bass, and five Channel Catfish per fisherman, with no limit on Bluegills and Redear Sunfish.

Roegge Lake is easy to find. Go out West Walnut Street (Route 104) past the Carnation Plant. Leave the highway at the sharp curve. Go north (on the old county farm road) approximately 6 miles, bearing in a northwesterly direction, to the Edgar Roegge farm. You will see one arm of the lake from the road, and the big red barn makes a good landmark.

Roegge Lake and Campgrounds is an ideal place to go camping and fishing close to home. I would recommend Roegge Lake to anyone who is interested in a low cost camping and fishing weekend, with real out - in - the - country atmosphere.

Warn On Boat Register Fraud

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Department of Conservation is warning recreational boat owners that they should not be misled by a boat registration offer being circulated through the mail by a private organization.

"The mailing offers to provide 'registration' to boat owners for their craft," said Henry N. Barkhausen, Director of the Department. "However, in Illinois, as in most of the states, boating registration is the responsibility of the states."

The organization, which calls itself the United States Merchant Marine, is sending out registration forms to boaters in all states.

"The organization soliciting registrations by mail is not an official agency of either the federal or state governments," said Kenneth Gruenewald, Boating Administrator for Department. "Boat owners should continue to contact the Department of Conservation for information on the proper methods of registering a recreational boat."

Gruenewald said that the matter has been turned over to the Attorney General's office, and that an official investigation will be conducted.

Boat Registration Deadline June 30

Those who would use a boat having an expired registration certificate face the prospect of arrest and fine under the Illinois Boat Registration and Safety Act. Deadline for certificate renewal is June 30.

Bass Limit Goes To Six Effective July 1

SPRINGFIELD — The daily catch limit will be reduced for two species of Illinois fish, effective July 1, according to Henry N. Barkhausen, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation. The limit for black bass will be reduced from 10 to six and the northern pike limit will be three instead of five. The limit for trout and salmon will also be reduced from eight to five. This law has been in effect on Lake Michigan waters for the last year, but since Illinois also has a put-and-take trout program on inland waters, the limits are being changed to include them as well.

The 10-inch minimum length law will still be in effect for Lake Michigan but not for trout taken on inland waters.

"There are several reasons we have reduced the catch limits for black bass and northern pike," said William Harth, superintendent of the division of fisheries for the department.

"The basic reason is that we feel that it will produce better fishing for Illinois anglers in the long run."

Al Lopinot, chief fisheries biologist for the department, said northern pike do not reproduce successfully in Illinois. "They have limited spawning

Boating Safety Tips

Keeping a proper lookout is as important on today's speedy runabouts as it was on the Santa Maria nearly 500 years ago, reminds the Committee for National Safe Boating.
The modern small boat skipper, particularly in crowded harbor areas, must watch out for floating debris, other boats, swimmers, piers and other hazards. The safest way, the Committee says, is to proceed slowly in congested and unfamiliar areas. If the wheel is too far aft to permit clear vision, post a lookout on the bow.

grounds because man's development has eliminated spawning marshes," he said. "Pike are normally found in northern Illinois, but they are just holding on in these lakes. Due to this habitat factor, the population is reduced. The department feels that reducing the daily catchlimit will strengthen the population of northern pike in Illinois."

The new limits imposed on bass will include all black bass — largemouth, smallmouth and spotted. Biologists have found that bass populations can easily be harvested to the point where populations are hurt for several years in new lakes and ponds. The daily catch limits are being reduced to cut down this initial harvest and make good fishing last over a period of time.

"Past creel censuses have shown that the daily limit of ten bass is not often reached, and that, psychologically, a realistic limit is more appealing to anglers," Lopinot said. "With the exception of new lakes and reservoirs, less than one per cent of the state's anglers take their daily limit of bass when fishing. We also feel that the new limit is more than sufficient to feed the average family."

Know Your Boat's Capacity

That extra can of fuel aboard your boat might be a margin of safety, but not if it runs the boat's load over recommended capacity. The Committee for National Safe Boating reminds boatmen that pleasure craft can be overloaded. Common sense demands that boat owners make sure they know their craft's capacity and never exceed it. If you must leave something ashore to stay within the limits—do it. But don't start with your wife.

Check the manufacturer's capacity plate for his recommendation. If your craft does not have such a plate, your marine dealer can advise you on your boat's safe weight limit.

Post office and mail boat, Sophie C waits at the dock ready to go off on RFD #7, Laconia, N.H., across Lake Winnepesaukee.

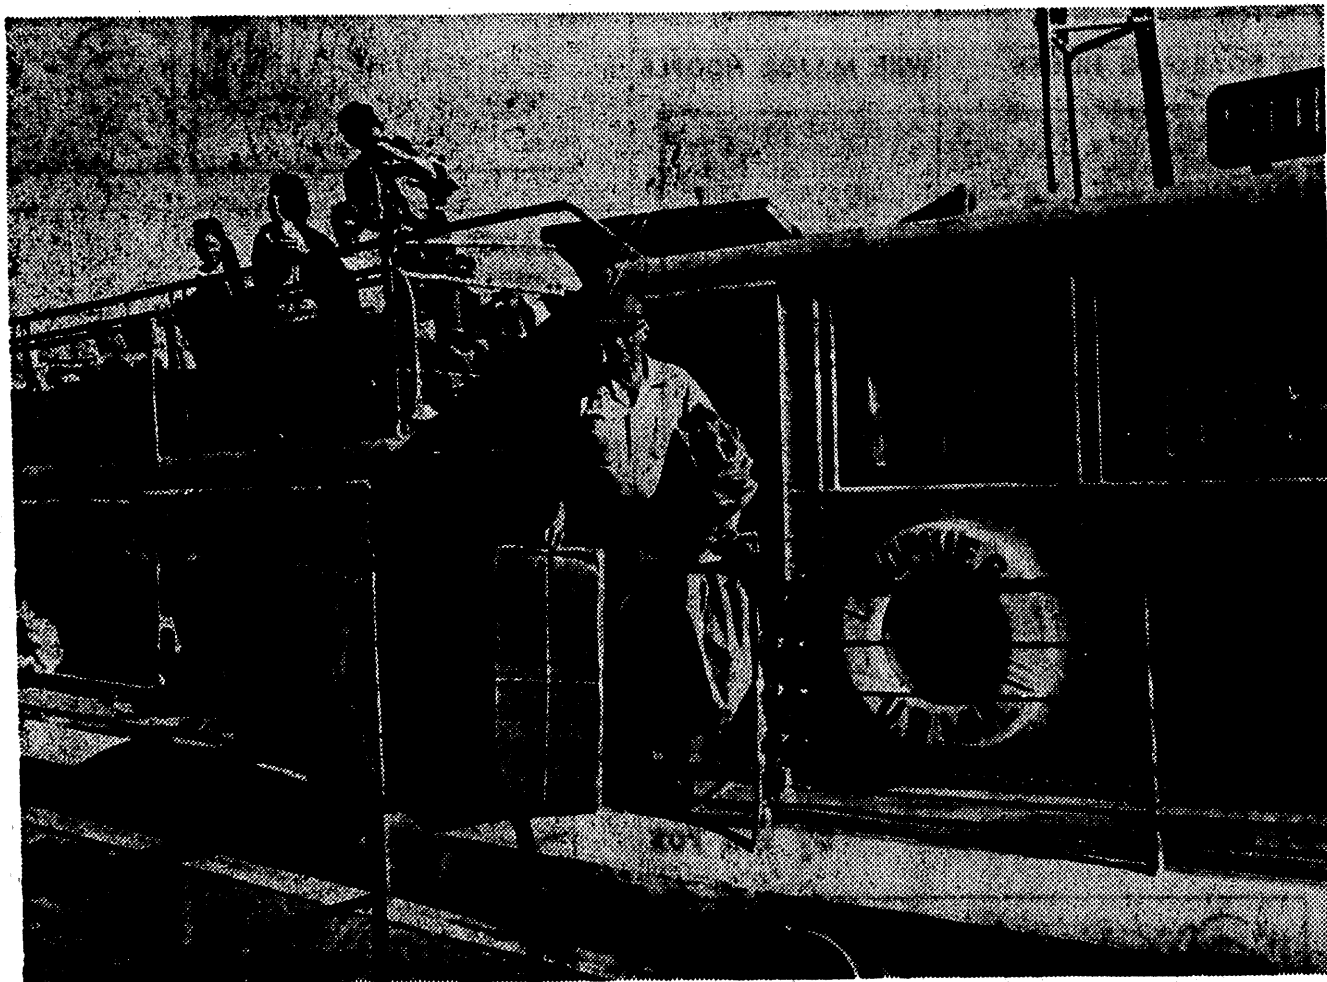

It's a post office which cruises 80 miles daily, twice around the lake, from June 15 to October 1. Its official name is the Winnepesaukee Railway Post Office—Lake Winnepesaukee being New Hampshire's large, central resort lake—and it operates on board the U.S. mail boat "Sophie C." "Sophie C" is a cheerfully unique mail boat which frequently takes on a load of tourist passengers for a sightseeing trip at the same time that it carries on business among the 272 habitable islands scattered over the face of the 72-square-mile lake. It is claimed to be the only such post office functioning on an inland body of water and it's been doing so since 1892, with formal status granted by Congress in 1916. It even has its own zip code: 03200.

Postmaster Ed Lavallee, now 80 years old, has been running the office for 40 years. He says the job has always been intriguing to him. "You can't ever tell what you're going to see." In winter, Lavallee still goes out on the lake—over the frozen surface in a snowmobile, keeping an eye on the summer properties while their owners are away.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — At a most inopportune time for Republicans, the wholesale price of food is rising. That means storm flags probably will be flying over retail outlets at election time.

It isn't only the time element that makes this issue of food prices a politically potent one. The emotional factor is incalculably deep: It involves health and the nourishment of one's family and it involves life itself.

There is still another ingredient that agitates the mixture: Food is bought daily or weekly. So the impact of rising prices, of the menace to life and security, is multiplied.

Motivational psychologists find that the reaction to a 2-cent increase in the price of a food product is sometimes as great as a $50 increase in the price of a durable product which might be purchased three times in a life.

Families that pride themselves on saving a few cents here and there by driving from one market to another to save on specials somehow feel that the 13 cents a mile it costs them is money well spent.

And women who rebel at a penny markup on a 46-ounce can of tomato juice will be thrilled to spend $10 for one ounce of a beauty product whose powers never have been proved and which costs less than the jar that contains it.

American families now spend less of their income for food than any other people on earth—less than 20 per cent. And the percentage is steadily falling, thanks more to rising incomes perhaps than to food industry efficiency.

The percentage can be misleading, however, especially when applied to poor families and to those on fixed incomes. For such people the percentage is much higher and steadily rising because of the inability to obtain higher income.

Still, in every income class Americans are showing a decided preference for the more expensive foods. We eat less starch, more protein than in years gone by. Many families of two adults and two teenagers devour more than 800 pounds of meat a year.

Not all this meat is in the raw state either, as it was 50 years ago when a comparable family probably ate less than two-thirds that amount. Now it often is processed and packaged and presented frozen as a gourmet meal.

In summary, Americans like to eat, most of them are afforded the opportunities to eat well, and a growing percentage—notwithstanding their price complaints—thoroughly indulge themselves. They are spending more for food because they choose to.

On the other hand, there is a minority on fixed or low incomes whose eating standards must be lowered as prices rise. The poorer you are the greater the percentage of income that must go for food.

In all ways, therefore, food pricing is an emotional issue and consumers are inclined to lash out at those they feel are responsible for increases. In the past they vented their ire on the grocer, but they might not do so again.

For one thing, having been attacked so often in the past five years, food retailers have been busily promoting their side of the story. It is fairly well known now that some big chains make only 1.5 cents on each $1 of sales.

That leaves the polls as a logical, timely outlet for feelings.

PERSONAL FINANCES

Market Not For Everybody

By CARLTON SMITH
Gerald M. Loeb, referred to by some as "the dean of Wall Street," has an unusual view of financial blessings. One of the most fortunate things that ever happened to him, he says, was being wiped out—about 40 years ago.

It taught him to run scared—something that every investor has to learn sooner or later, he maintains, and the sooner the better. Over lunch a few days ago he recalled how he'd "done pretty well" in the market by the time he was 20, and then suddenly lost the whole bundle.

On sober reflection, he realized he had been only lucky, not smart. Starting over again—with $10,000 provided by his mother selling the family jewelry—he parlayed the stake into one of the Street's most respectable fortunes. Along the way he found time to write one of the standard how-to books, "The Battle for Investment Survival," whose title sums up one of the main bits of wisdom he'd pass along to less experienced investors.

"Any time you start thinking you're so good that it's easy to make money in the market," says Loeb, "you're headed for trouble. It's a battle all the way, and anyone who gets overconfident or loses his caution is going to get booby-trapped."

Some of the dean's maxims for beginning investors:

"I tell them to go very slowly. If you have, say, $5,000 of risk capital you can invest, use only half of it. You're going to make some mistakes; always be able to pay for them."

"The catastrophe rate is so high for beginning investors because most people want to make a killing. They turn up their noses at sound, well-known stocks because they're looking for the little-known, exotic stock that's going to make that killing for them. That's one of the quickest ways of losing money."

"After you buy your first stock, sit back and see what happens to it. After a time, you'll know whether you made a mistake or a sound buy. Not until then are you ready for your next move."

"Never buy a stock that isn't better than one you own. When you're sitting there with your first stock, and something else looks good, ask yourself if it's so good that you're willing to sell your first stock in order to buy it."

"Nobody is expert enough to pick 20 stocks and do much better than the average of the market. If you own four that you've carefully selected, you'll almost always find that one shapes up as your best, and one is your worst. When you find something that you're convinced is better than the worst stock you own, sell off number four and replace it with the new one. Instead of overdiversifying, keep weeding out and upgrading."

Unlike many market enthusiasts, Gerald Loeb doesn't believe everybody in American ought to own some common stock because it's good for them. Keep your money in the bank or savings and loan, he advises, unless you've studied the market enough to know what you're doing. And even that may not be enough:

"Part of being a successful investor has to do with a person's psychological make-up. Some have a flair for it—some haven't. To find out whether you have it, stick your toe in the water. Don't jump in head first and then find you can't swim."

Risks of armed robberies on banks are so high these days that clerks are entitled to danger money, says the president of the Bank Employers Union. At a conference in Derbyshire, Don Earl estimated the danger element in the job had trebled in recent years. "It is high time the public realized the increasing risks from raids that all bank men and women have to face," he says.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest rates on home loans are going up again, the government announced Friday.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board disclosed that interest rates on conventional mortgage loans climbed slightly in May after six months of decline.

Some economists have predicted that home-loan interest rates should start to go up again as the demand for loans increases with the present housing boom.

The board, however, attempted to play down the May rise. "One month is too short a time to establish a trend," said board Chairman Preston Martin.

In general, he said, the supply of money available for mortgage investment continues to be large. He said this should moderate upward pressures on mortgage rates in coming months.

But Martin stopped short of predicting a decline. Figures released by the board showed interest rates actually began to turn around in April.

In May, the average effective interest rate on conventional mortgages used to buy new homes was 7.53 per cent, up from the 7.51 per cent in April. In March, the rate was 7.52 per cent.

The change was similar on mortgages made for buying existing homes. The average effective interest rate on these loans was 7.46 per cent, up from April's 7.42 per cent and the 7.44 per cent in March.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Investor concern over rising interest rates and foreign monetary problems pushed stock market prices lower Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 6.02 to 944.69.

"Britain's decision to temporarily float the pound was the major market influence," said Monte Gordon, general partner with the brokerage firm of Sartorius & Co.

The announcement by several large banks that they were raising their prime lending rate to 5 1/4 per cent also dampened investor enthusiasm, brokers said.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 13.94 million shares, compared with 13.41 million Thursday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks fell 0.25 to 59.89.

Of the 1,732 issues traded on the Big Board, 550 advanced and 825 declined. There were 29 new highs and 115 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 1.4 to 326.0, with industrials down 2.8, rails off 0.4, and utilities off 0.6.

Airlines, rails, electronics and motors were down.

There were 109 blocks of 10,000 shares or over traded on the Big Board, versus a revised total of 92 Thursday.

Magnavox was most active on the Big Board, losing 1/2 to 33 1/4. A block of 147,800 shares traded at 32 1/2, down 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index fell 0.05 to 27.87. Of the 1,172 issues traded 338 advanced, and 528 declined. Volume totaled 3.57 million shares, compared with 3.42 million Thursday.

In Over-the-Counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index closed down 0.57 at 130.22, and the industrial index fell 0.39 to 140.14.

MARTHA MITCHELL THREATENS TO LEAVE HUSBAND

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell says she is "sick and tired" of politics and has threatened to leave her husband unless he gets out of the political arena.

"I gave him an ultimatum," the wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell told a UPI reporter in a telephone conversation from Newport Beach, Calif. Thursday night.

Mitchell, contacted at his Washington apartment, took his wife's latest phone tirade in good stride.

"She's great," he said. "That little sweetheart. I love her so much. She gets a little upset about politics, but she loves me and I love her and that's what counts."

Mrs. Mitchell's phone call, which she initiated, was ended abruptly when someone apparently grabbed the phone from her hand. She was heard to say: "You just get away."

Attempts to regain the broken connection failed when an operator said "Mrs. Mitchell is indisposed and cannot talk."

Mitchell said his wife's sister and a secretary were with her in Newport Beach and it was probably one of them who terminated the call.

Mitchell explained that his wife wants him to return to his highly successful New York law practice.

Hour-Long Soap Operas On TV Docket?

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — What's really new on the television docket? The hour-long soap opera, that's what. And it is not to be dismissed lightly.

At least one network is interested in "Yesterday's Child... Tomorrow's Adult," dreamed up by a veteran drama writer, Winifred Wolfe, and a producer, Mary Harris. Both have guided a couple of the traditional half-hour sagas through several seasons of marital bust-ups, prolonged hospital stays, murder trials and tangled emotional relationships.

The half-hour soap, the traditional TV form, is a logical development from radio's 15-minute shows. But even when nighttime TV was loaded with 60-minute shows the idea of a 60-minute daytime serial never surfaced until now.

Miss Harris, partner in the production company, is ready to roll with five hour-long shows weekly, convinced there is an audience for such a venture. She has been the producer of "Another World," and, more recently, of "As The World Turns," two of the long-running serials.

UNUSUAL DEAL

Comedian-pianist Victor Borge has an unusual deal on a British television special presented as a benefit performance in connection with the opening of a new studio for London Weekend Television. He is the sole performer in the latter half of the show, playing for about 70 minutes, and receives all rights to his portion for showing anywhere except in the British Isles and Australia. Undoubtedly, it will wind up on some American network in the not too distant future.

NEWS SPECIAL LOOKS AT ROOTS OF MAFIA

"An Essay on the Mafia," a look at the cultural and sociological roots of the so-called "secret society" of the Italian-Americans that has once again been thrust into the public awareness by a spate of gangland murders, will be broadcast as a CBS News Special Sunday, June 25 (7:30-8:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network. With two of the world's leading chroniclers of the Mafia, Luigi Barzini and Nicholas Pileggi, as reporters, the broadcast will examine what is at the heart of what Pileggi describes as "the apparent end of the Italian Mafia." Time began running out, says Pileggi, slightly less than one year ago on the day when reputed Mafia chief Joseph Colombo was shot and seriously wounded at an Italian-American Unity Day rally in New York's Columbus Circle. Since then, there have been 13 other shootings that may be connected to the attempted murder of Colombo.

Alsey Lumber Co. Levelled By Fire

An early afternoon fire levelled the Alsey Lumber Co. Friday.

Aided by a stiff breeze, flames swept through the lumberyard before the first fire fighters on the scene had a chance to control the blaze.

Ed Haggard, chief of the Winchester Volunteer Fire Department, had his crew in Alsey about 15 minutes after the two o'clock alarm was received. "Practically the whole thing was afire when we got there," he said. "We didn't even try to stop it. We just tried to protect the buildings around it," he added.

Kenneth Leitze, manager of the yard, said he was in his office when Lawrence Hoots of Alsey ran in and told him of the fire. Leitze said the blaze started on the north side of the yard where cement and masonry supplies were stored.

Leitze, who was alone at the time of the fire, said flames were in the rafters of the buildings when he first looked.

While there was no dollar estimate of the damage immediately available, Leitze estimated that about 50,000 board feet of lumber were destroyed. He said a truckload of shingles received Thursday contributed to the thick, black smoke that blanketed the area.

Leitze was able to remove most of the company's records from the office before it burned.

When the alarm was first sounded, there was concern that buildings throughout the town of 250 were endangered. Firemen confined the blaze mostly to the lumberyard, though minor damage was reported to a couple of nearby buildings.

Fire departments from at least ten towns and cities — including Jacksonville, South Jacksonville, Roodhouse, White Hall, Bluffs, and the North Scott Fire Protection District — hauled water to Alsey, which does not have a municipal water supply.

The lumberyard complex was levelled in about an hour and a half. Haggard said the ruins would probably smoulder for a week.

The lumberyard was owned by the Crawford Lumber Co. of Jacksonville. When asked if the loss was insured, Lawrence Crawford Jr., replied, "I hope

High Court Affirms Ethics Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court ruled Friday that the governmental ethics bill approved by the General Assembly earlier this year is constitutional.

The high court overturned a finding by Judge Daniel A. Covelli of Circuit Court in Cook County that held the income disclosure law was not in conformity with the U.S. Constitution.

"The judgement of the Circuit Court is reversed and the Ethics Act is held to be constitutional," the tribunal said in an unsigned four-paragraph order. It did not render a formal opinion but said it would do so later.

Only on one point did the justices fault the law.

They declared invalid a provision of the act authorizing the Secretary of State to hand down advisory legal opinions interpreting the act.

However, they said that this alone was not enough to make the measure unconstitutional.

Passed as a result of the racing stock controversy that swirled over state politics last year, the law requires public officials to file with the secretary of state a listing of their incomes, assets and debts.

The decision could bear sharply on indictments on Ethics Law charges pending against State Sen. Bernard S. Neistein, D-Chicago, and former Sen. Everett Peters, R-St. Joseph.

Both men are charged in connection with an alleged failure to report ownership of racing stock.

They stand accused of violating the state's 1967 Ethics Act.

However, the current measure supplanted the 1967 act and some attorneys speculated that the Covelli order could be used to defend Peters and Neistein.

SEAT DAMAGED

City police received a report at 7:23 a.m. Friday from Dorothy Medlock, 514 Hardin that something had been thrown in the front seat of her auto. Police suspected some type of acid may have been involved. There were holes in the seat.

Demos Withdraw Referendum Clause

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Senate Democrats withdrew a hampering requirement for a statewide referendum Friday from Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for $561 million in bonds for improvements.

The Senate sent back to the House the University of Illinois annual appropriation totalling a little short of $300 million. The bill included about $23 million restored by the Senate for building projects, mostly for the Chicago Circle Campus, to be financed by bond money.

Another Senate passage to the House spotlighted the state Conservation Department's budget of about $72 million, short of millions intended for land acquisition for parks. One senator said acquisition money had been cut by as much as $30 million.

The Senate passed a $59 million appropriation in the Ogilvie program for state scholarship, which requires House approval of amendments.

The compromise had been detailed earlier as an exchange of passage of the bond bill sought by Ogilvie for passage of aid to Chicago public schools and Chicago transportation sought by Democrats.

The pact appeared shattered when Democrats attached the referendum, which Republicans said made the bill worthless because of unlikely voter approval in November.

The Senate wiped off the amendment by a unanimous voice vote after reconsideration was asked by Sen. Robert Cherry, D-Chicago.

How the bonding program

Two defendants appeared before Judge Gordon Seator Friday morning and entered pleas of guilty to separate charges.

Donald M. Colclasure, 19, of Route 2 pleaded guilty to illegal transportation of liquor and paid a fine of $100 and $10 costs and a second charge of driving too fast for conditions and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

Goldie Chestnut, 36, of Route 1, Beardstown entered a plea of guilty to deceptive practice and was fined $25 and $15 court costs. She was charged with writing a worthless check of $28.11 at National Foods. She also made restitution for the bad check.

John King and Faye McNeff, both of Mt. Sterling, are patients at Schmitt hospital in Beardstown.

Lincoln Hilt of Mt. Sterling is a patient at Culbertson hospital in Rushville.

John Reside of Ashland is a patient in the intensive care unit of Memorial hospital in Springfield.

Celebrate 145 Years

On Sunday, June 25th, the First Presbyterian church at 870 West College avenue in Jacksonville will celebrate the 145th anniversary of its founding.

The observance will begin with an anniversary service of praise and communion at nine o'clock Sunday morning. New members will be publicly recognized prior to the serving of the Lord's Supper. A communion meditation, The Good Life, will be presented by the Reverend Dale Robb, pastor.

The Reverend James S. Blair, associate pastor, and ruling elders will also share leadership in the observance. The celebration will be continued on Tuesday, June 27th, when the congregation will entertain the Presbytery of Great Rivers beginning at 1:30 in the afternoon.

On July 9th, as a concluding event in the anniversary schedule, the Reverend Kenneth Dobson, acting pastor of the Presbyterian church in Maple Heights, Ohio, will be the guest preacher. Mr. Dobson grew up and was ordained in the local congregation. He graduated from Illinois College and from McCormick Theological Seminary.

On June 30, 1827, twelve people organized the First Presbyterian church in a barn one mile southeast of town. The barn stood near Mauvaisterre Creek approximately on the present site of the Mobil Chemical warehouse. A total of fourteen congregations sprang from the pioneer organization.

On July 9, 1952, the former State Street and Westminster Presbyterian churches merged, reconstituting the First Presbyterian church. In the past twenty years, the congregation has more than tripled its contributions to the world Christian mission, has improved its facilities and enlarged its program of service.

All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to share in any of the scheduled anniversary events. An appropriate gift commemorating 145 years of Christian service will be presented to each worshiper at the conclusion of the anniversary service of praise and communion this Sunday morning.

Lottery Bill Snagged On GOP Opposition

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A move to establish a state lottery hit a wall or Republican opposition Friday and failed to collect enough votes to pass the Illinois Senate.

Amid charges that a lottery would open a door to "gambling beyond your wildest dreams," the legislation was postponed for consideration when it received only 20 votes, 10 shy of approval.

The move meant that the bill would not come up for a vote again during this session.

All 17 Republican Senators present voted against the bill, prompting its sponsor to declare that Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie had applied pressure to kill the legislation.

"If Illinois votes this down," said Sen. Daniel O'Brien, D-Chicago, the sponsor, "it will be the first state that has had a political party caucus position (against it)."

In several television appearances this week, Ogilvie indicated he was against a lottery bill, declaring that "gambling has a corrupting influence on government."

A spokesman for the governor said he had applied no pressure to get the bill defeated.

O'Brien said the lottery would have generated $100 million in revenue for the state, with half of the proceeds going to primary education and the rest to local governments.

Sen. Hudson Sours, R-Peoria, led the opponents' attack, declaring that a state lottery would only lead to widespread gambling. "This bill is singularly devoid of any taint of goodness," he said.

Sen. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, replied to Sours by saying, "If you really don't think we should have gambling, why don't you come up with a bill to abolish the race tracks?"

"It (gambling) is good (in your eyes)," he added, "when people of affluence can go and have cocktails and watch the races but not when the poor fellow can wager 50 cents on a lottery."

Sours shot back that, although the state does regulate horse racing, it "does not wear the eyeshades in the back rooms."

Other critics called the proposal a regressive form of taxation which would arm the poor who, they said, can least afford it.

Supporters, all of them Democrats, keyed their backing to the potential revenue a lottery could generate.

"We need this money," said Sen. Robert Cherry, D-Chicago. "If this were not an election year, the governor would relish this bill ... because he needs the money."

Under the plan already approved by the House, a lottery would make $225 million a year with $100 million going to the state, another $100 million for prizes and $25 million for administration, its sponsors said.

If the Senate had passed the bill and the governor had signed it, Illinois would have become the first state west of the Appalachian Mountains to adopt a state lottery.

So far New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut have adopted lotteries.
